Firemen at Odds On Plans for Use In Atomic Attack

Murphy, Van Buren Report Lack of Interest Here by Volunteers for Defense Program

State organizations of paid and volunteer firemen are at odds over the merits of a fire mobilization plan for use in an atomic attack, an Associated Press report from Syracuse said today.

Meanwhile, both Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy and Police Chief Raymond Van Buren, report slow results in the efforts to obtain volunteers for the local defense program.

Chief Murphy said five have signed up to date and Chief Van Buren said he had obtained only six names.

The controversy over the fire mobilization plan set up by Governor Dewey's administration, the Associated Press said, resulted in differences between the State Permanent Firemen's Association and the State Volunteer Firemen's Association.

The former lauded the mobilization program drawn up by the state safety division through a resolution adopted by about 40 delegates from 15 upstate cities at the closing session of a two-day convention.

Last week, the state Volunteer Firemen's Association charged in a resolution adopted at a convention in Syracuse that the state has "failed utterly" to provide an adequate plan.

Contractors and representatives of the State Public Works Department are also scheduled to confer in Syracuse tomorrow on plans to mobilize repair facilities in case of atomic attack. The plans, part of the state's overall civilian defense preparations, have been drawn by a six-member civil defense committee in the public works department.

White House Keeps Prodding for Solution to Dispute

Washington, Aug. 23 (AP)—Two striking rail unions promised "for the time being" today to keep their token walkouts from spreading into a tieup of nationwide proportions.

Leaders of 300,000 trainmen and conductors agreed to withdraw their threat to strike one or more major railroads when this week's five-day shutdowns at three terminals and two steel-carrying railroads have run their course.

The White House kept up its determined prodding for a solution to the long wage-hour dispute between the two unions and the nation's principal railroads.

Wants Immediate Talks

Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman asked negotiations committees of the carriers and unions to be ready to resume talks at any moment.

The union chiefs said through a spokesman that they would forego any new walkout orders out of consideration for President Truman's peace efforts. They said the move had not been requested by President Truman but was out of "respect for him." There was no indication how long the voluntary moratorium on strikes would last.

Three terminals were struck Monday in Cleveland, Louisville and St. Paul, and two short but strategic railroads were shut down yesterday. The rail lines were the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern and the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie.

Want U. S. to Take Roads

The strikes were called for only five days, in a maneuver by the unions to avoid any strike ending injunction but to hasten government seizure of the roads. Three times the unions have formally called upon Mr. Truman to seize the properties, saying they'll work for the government at the present wage and hour contract.

Both sides acknowledged there had been no progress at yesterday's White House meetings.

Still in the picture was an offer made by the railroads last Saturday to grant wage increases in exchange for a three-year no-strike agreement. The wage hike to members of the two unions in yard service would amount to 23 cents an hour, to help offset the loss of pay in cutting back from 48 hours to a 40 a week.

Cost of Living Reaches Highest Point in 2 Years

Rise Between April 15th and July 15th Noted at 3 Per Cent by Bureau

Washington, Aug. 23 (AP)—Soaring food prices have shot the government's official cost-of-living index to its highest level in almost two years.

Under at least partial influence of pressures built up by the Korean war, the Bureau of Labor Statistics' index climbed 1.4 per cent between June 15 and July 15. The Korean fighting started June 25.

The month's rise brought the total rise between April 15 and July 15 to 3 per cent.

The spurt, announced by the bureau last night, brings a five cents an hour pay boost to 335,000 General Motors Corporation wage earners, effective Sept. 1. Their wages are tied to the agency's figures on living costs under contract with the C.I.O. United Auto Workers.

General Motors quickly announced there was no basis for speculation that the pay increases would cause rises in the cost of G.M. automobiles and trucks. The company said it is trying to hold prices stable and hopes prices generally will level off.

The bureau said its consumer price index had advanced from 170.2 per cent of the 1935-39 level on June 15 to 172.5 per cent on July 15. The gain of 2.3 percentage points figures out to a 1.4 per cent advance. The July 15 level was the highest since October, 1948.

Smaller advances in the preceding two months brought the quarterly increase to 3 per cent above the April 15 index level.

About 76,000 salaried General Motors employes in addition to the 335,000 on hourly wage, will receive an extra cost-of-living allowance of $25 a month as a result of the index rise.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics attributed much of the sharp June 15 to July 15 rise to higher meat, fruit and vegetable prices.

It added that a special study showed sharp seasonal declines in the retail prices of fresh vegetables and lower prices of fresh pork more than offset increases in most other food costs between July 15 and July 31.

The agency said it believes food prices on July 31 were slightly under the average level of July 15.

A preliminary tabulation for the week of Aug. 15, it added, indicated retail food prices had declined a bit from the mid-July figures.

Aged Woman Found Dead in Her Yard

Mrs. Charles F. Wood, 80, of 82 Fair street, was found dead in the yard of her home shortly before noon today.

Police said it is believed that she had suffered a heart attack and had fallen down a stairway into the yard.

Officers Walter Fitzgerald and Frank Sammons were dispatched to the house at 11:57 a. m., when the woman was found lying in the yard.

Dr. Joseph Hartman and Coroner Ernest A. Kelly were notified and she was pronounced dead by Dr. Hartman, police said. The body was turned over to A. Carr & Son.

Coroner Kelly said death was due to a heart condition.

Fined for Speeding

Irvin Bob Roll, 25, of West Lafayette, Ind., was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Arthur Smith of the sheriff's office Monday at Stone Ridge on a charge of operating his car at a speed of 60 miles an hour in a 35 mile zone and later driving between 70 and 75 miles an hour in a 50 mile zone. Taken before Justice of the Peace Roy Weber, a fine of $10 was imposed.

Farmers Divided on Results Of Artificial Rainmaking

New York, Aug. 23 (AP)—New York state farmers have two minds about the big city's experiments with artificial rainmaking.

Some like it. Some don't.

They aired their opinions yesterday at a meeting of the Farm Bureau Federation for the six southeastern counties nearest New York city.

When the subject of rainmaking came up, some said it had helped their crops. Others said it ruined hay and apples.

That is—granting that rainmaking actually works.

Dr. Wallace E. Howell of Harvard, the city's $100-a-day rainmaker who was hired to help fill the city's depleted reservoirs, says he's produced "some" rain but can't say how much.

Some farmers still are skeptical, but others pointed to the freak rain season this spring and summer—all during the time Dr. Howell was dumping dry ice out of airplanes or streaming silver iodide smoke from Catskill peaks.

"The sun would be shining one minute," said one farmer, William Craft, of Hyde Park in Dutchess county.

"Then a funny looking cloud would come along and it would rain for about 10 minutes—just long enough to wash the spray off the apple trees.

Would Shoot The 'Doc'

"I know some people up there that would shoot Dr. Howell on sight."

By and large, the farmers felt some sort of regulation was necessary.

"State control is needed for rainmaking," declared Oren Burbank, Dutchess County Farm Bureau agent.

"It's not fair for the city to make rain during the hay-making season."

Three Congressmen Win In State Primary Fights

Dewey Urges Stand By Free World on Formosa Invasion

Don't Wait for Attacks, Is His Advice; Says Reds Wage Undeclared World War 3

Ottawa, Aug. 23 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey today urged the free world to take a united stand now against a Communist invasion of Formosa.

Dewey said recognition of China's Red regime by Britain and India "may imply recognition of Communist claims of Formosa," which the United States is pledged to defend against the Reds.

"We should not wait until Formosa is attacked and then find out whether we are united or divided," Dewey asserted.

In a bluntly worded speech prepared for International Day ceremonies at the Central Canadian Exhibition, the New York governor charged that Russian communism already was waging an "undeclared World War III" against free nations.

Dewey said the Soviet program "is bent solely on enslavement and murder." He pleaded for swift, united action by those with a "common urge to save the cause of human freedom."

The former Republican presidential nominee said anti-Communist nations should put the Formosan problem "right out on the table" for "some common agreement" in the United Nations.

Must Not Wait

"We must stop waiting for catastrophies to happen and then rushing in to the United Nations and to our own inadequate defenses," he added, "else we shall not live through many more crises."

He said the "impending attack on Formosa" by Chinese Reds was a Communist weapon to "divide the English-speaking people."

"We should blunt and destroy it now, in public," Dewey added, "before it becomes an effective weapon to disunite and destroy us."

The United States and Canada have not recognized the Chinese Communist government. President Truman has ordered the U. S. Seventh Fleet to protect Formosa, last stronghold of Chiang Kai-shek's Chinese Nationalist government, from Communist invasion.

Several western powers, including Great Britain, which are supporting American and U.N. action against Communists in South Korea, have recognized the Chinese Communist government. Their reaction to American defense of Formosa against the Chinese Reds currently poses a delicate international question.

37 Incumbents Are Unchallenged; LeFevre, Two Others Quit

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 23 (AP)—Three New York congressmen won primary contests, one was upset and the fate of another hung in the balance today.

Renominated in yesterday's balloting were:

Veteran upstate Republicans, W. Sterling Cole of the 39th district and Clarence E. Kilburn of the 34th, and Democrat Louis B. Heller of the 7th in Broothly.

Democrat Joseph L. Pfeifer, who has represented Brooklyn's 8th since 1934, was defeated by Sicily-born Victor L. Anfuso, 45.

Undecided was Rep. Edwin A. Hall's bitter, four-way fight for Republican renomination in the 37th.

With 213 of 232 precincts counted, Hall led Lester R. Mosher by 108 votes—15,602 to 15,494.

Incumbents were involved in five of New York's 10 congressional primary fights.

Thirty-seven incumbents were unchallenged for renomination. Three others are retiring—James W. Wadsworth, Jr., of the 41st, Jay LeFevre of the 30th, and William L. Pfeiffer, all Republicans.

Pfeiffer is retiring to devote full time to his job as New York state Republican chairman.

Voting Is Light

Voting was generally light in primary balloting that also involved nine State Senate nominations and 31 for the State Assembly. Only two incumbents were ousted.

The defeated legislative incumbents were Senator Henry W. Griffiths of Palmyra and Assemblyman William L. Doige of Chateaugay, both veteran Republicans.

Griffiths, a senator since 1939, lost to George R. Metcalf, Auburn newspaperman.

Doige, first elected in 1938, finished last in a three-way primary fight won by Robert Gordon Main of Malone.

Among the legislators turning back primary challengers was Republican Walter J. Mahoney of Buffalo, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.

Hot Fight in 30th

Rep. Cole of Bath, third-ranking member of the House Military Services Committee, won renomination in the 39th only after a scorching battle with Attorney John Young of Corning.

In Brooklyn, Democrat Heller won handily over Charles Kleinberg.

But Rep. Pfeifer trailed upset winner Anfuso all the way in their Democratic Primary scrap, losing 11,902 to 9,695. Pfeifer is a mem-

Held in Plutonium Theft

Sanford Lawrence Simons (center), 28-year-old University of Denver research scientist, is in custody of two deputy U. S. marshals in Denver after his arrest on a charge of stealing some plutonium—a vital atom bomb component—while he was employed on the Los Alamos A-bomb project. Reservists May Be Called to Assist Recruiting Drive

8 Officers, 57 Enlisted Personnel Will Serve 90 Days at Five Upstate Cities

Lt. Col. Joseph Montgomery, district commander of the Northern New York Recruiting District, announced today that authority has been granted to call to active duty a limited number of company grade officers and both male and female enlisted reservists of any grade, to work with the Recruiting Service in upstate cities. These reservists are needed to help man the recruiting and induction stations located in Syracuse, Albany, Rochester, Binghamton and Buffalo.

The tour of duty with the Recruiting Service will be for not more than 90 days. A total of eight army officers are necessary and 57 enlisted reservists can be recalled. All persons selected for this duty must be volunteers and their recall under this program must not interfere with any nationwide army recall program, it was reported at the local recruiting office in the Central Postoffice building.

Both the male and female reservists are needed under this recruiting tour program. The female reservists will implement the present WCA-WFA enlistment sections in the five principal recruiting stations of upstate New York. Other female reservists will be able to serve in clerical and administrative positions.

The increased calls of the Draft Boards in New York state have imposed a heavy burden on the recruiting stations who are simultaneously processing inductees and primarily attempting to fill the ranks by volunteer enlistees. The enlisted reserve men will be used in administrative positions principally with the processing of men forwarded from draft boards.

All reservists who wish further information concerning duty with the Recruiting Service for this period of 90 days, or wish to volunteer, should contact the Recruiting Station in any of the five cities listed above or the local U.S.A. and U.S.A.F. recruiting station in the central post-office on Broadway will be glad to explain the duties and financial benefits of these volunteer assignments.

Repeats Demands

Bonn, Germany, Aug. 23 (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer today repeated his demands that West Germany immediately be allowed an armed police force and that the western allies send more troops to Germany. Adenauer amplified his demands at a news conference after Socialist Leader Kurt Schumacher rejected the proposal for a 65,000-man American-armed force during a lengthy conference yesterday.

Denver Scientist Facing Five Years, Fine of $10,000 if Found Guilty

Denver, Aug. 23 (AP)—Federal charges of stealing plutonium—vital in atom bomb production—have been filed against Sanford Lawrence Simons, 28, research scientist at Denver University.

FBI Agent Russell Kramer said a small glass vial of plutonium was recovered from a hiding place beneath Simons' Denver home. He was held in default of $10,000 bond. Simons will be tried under the Atomic Energy Act. The maximum penalty is five years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine.

Kramer said the plutonium was taken from the Los Alamos, N. Mex., atomic project four years ago. The F.B.I. said Simons admitted taking the plutonium as a "souvenir" and that he had placed it under his house so his children wouldn't play with the radioactive substance.

Simons served as an army enlisted man at Los Alamos from August, 1944, to March, 1946. He was a civilian scientist there from March, 1946, to July, 1946. Since September 1948, Simons has been a research scientist at Denver University.

Won't Tell Quantity

The F.B.I. would not disclose the quantity or value of the plutonium. Kramer said he had heard varying reports the substance was worth from $500 to $200,000.

The Justice Department in Washington said Simons was

Crack in Line Would Let Five Divisions in on Supply Center

Tokyo, Thursday, Aug. 24 (AP)—Doughboys drove back vanguards of 50,000 Red Koreans pressing down from the north against Taegu on the Korean central warfront Wednesday.

A combined American-South Korean attack was hurled at North Korean flanking infiltrators at dawn. Some Reds had penetrated within eight miles of Taegu.

The heaviest fighting on the whole 120-mile long Korean battleline was on the American right flank before Taegu.

A break-through by Red forward elements would unleash five Communist divisions for a drive on Taegu, 12 miles to the south of the bloodiest fighting.

A big push for Taegu was considered imminent but there was no official mention of it at headquarters. General MacArthur omitted his early morning war summary, a usual indication that the situation is generally unchanged.

Many Casualties

On the Taegu front troops fought over a 100-yard-wide no man's land. Big guns and planes poured deadly fire into the narrow line and casualties were believed to be heavy.

The Reds brought out hoarded tanks but kept them out of range. They lost 11 of them in four days' fighting before Taegu.

Col. John Michaelis, commander of the U. S. 27th "Wolfhound" Regiment, said he expected the opening phase of an all-out Red drive on the Taegu supply and rail hub was near at hand Wednesday.

A P. Correspondent Don Whitehead at the front quoted Colonel Michaelis as saying:

Can Break Drive

"The next 48 hours could bring a decision. If we can stop them, we will break the back of this drive."

A P. Correspondent Tom Lambert reported from the Taegu front that hundreds of Reds attacked American artillery positions that were pounding a wedge the Communists had shoved into the frontline. No U. S. guns were knocked out in that attack.

Lambert said the North Koreans tried to cut the allied road from Taegu but succeeded in slowing supplies only briefly Wednesday.

The main Kumwha-Taegu mountain highway from the north was the battleline. Ridges lining it were commanded by the Reds.

Allotment Approval Raises Hopes of Training Backers

Washington, Aug. 23 (AP)—Swift Senate approval of monthly payments to families of enlisted men has raised the hopes of backers of Universal Military Training (U.M.T.) proposals.

The dependents allowance bill went through the Senate last night in less than an hour.

Shouted Senate approval sent the measure on to the House, where a similar bill was reported favorably yesterday by its armed services committee.

Today Senator Tydings (D.-Md.) called together the Senate Armed Services Committee he heads to hear additional testimony on the broad U.M.T. measure.

A third defense measure — to set up registration and possible draft of doctors, dentists and other scientists and specialists—also moved ahead in the Senate.

Chairman Hunt (D.-Wyo.) ended public hearings on it before an armed services subcommittee late yesterday after civilian and military medical leaders voiced general approval of the proposal.

Tydings had more than a majority of his 13-member committee lined up in favor of compulsory military training for youths 18 to 20 years old.

Tydings needed only a brief explanation to get the family allowance measure through the Senate.

The proposed monthly payments the bill would provide vary from a minimum of $85 monthly for a dependent wife, child, or parent to $115 for three or more dependents of men in the lowest grades.

Enlisted men in lowest grades would sign over $40 of their pay to their dependents. The government would pay the rest of the benefits.

Allowances would be higher for families of men in the upper grades—the sergeants in the army and comparable grades in other services. Men in the top two grades would sign over $80 of their pay each month. Those in the next two grades would contribute $60.

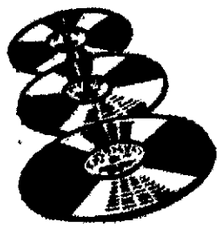

The bill reported by the House committee proposed slightly higher monthly allowances for dependents of men in the upper grades, with no requirement that the men sign over part of their pay.

48 Hours to Leave

Macon, Ga., Aug. 23 (AP)—This middle Georgia city has given card-carrying Communists 48 hours to get out of town. An anti-Red ordinance was given speedy and unanimous approval last night by the Macon City Council. The maximum penalty upon conviction would be six months in jail and a $100 fine. Mayor Lewis B. Wilson expressed some doubt as to the constitutionality of the ordinance, but he approved the step. A similar ordinance and an active police campaign against Communists is in effect in Birmingham, Ala.

Mob Disappears

Blair said one shot was fired by the mob into the jail but that the mob dispersed quickly when a sheriff's deputy returned the fire. No injuries were reported.

French Labor Raise

Rambouillet, France, Aug. 23 (AP)—French labor is to be assured a minimum wage of 18 cents an hour—22 cents in the high cost Paris area. Setting of the minimum by the cabinet opens the way for negotiation of new labor contracts. The ruling yesterday followed months of controversy which toppled French cabinets. Wages were unfrozen early this year for the first time since 1939.

Had Enough 'Dough'

Los Angeles, Aug. 23 (AP)—Emanuel Maschetto, 63-year-old laborer, stands convicted of shoplifting. A municipal judge yesterday found him guilty of stealing a can of soup and a can of condensed milk. He will be sentenced September 5. Police testified Maschetto was not exactly broke. In his pockets they found $6,886.03.

Won't Fly U.N. Flag

Los Angeles, Aug. 23 (AP)—The United Nations flag will not fly from Los Angeles county's flagpole. "Rather than make this an international issue, let's drop the whole project," moved County Supervisor Raymond V. Darby yesterday, and all the board but one backed him up in rescinding a recent decision to obtain and display the U.N. emblem. The board acted to ban the flag after two citizens argued that the U.N. Council is subject to suspicion because Russia is a member. Supervisor John Anson Ford argued in vain that banning the U.N. flag may serve to undermine progress toward international amity.

Wire Stalls 35 Trains

New York, Aug. 23 (AP)—An underground electrical fire stopped train service for an hour at Grand Central Terminal last night and caused a pile-up of thousands of commuters and long-distance passengers. The blaze started with a short circuit from a third rail in the huge tunnel below Park avenue at 49th street. Smoke seeped through street gratings near the Waldorf-Astoria and other fashionable Manhattan hotels that are built on steel piling over the subterranean rail lines. The fire itself involved only a few ties. But it forced a power cut-off that stalled 35 trains.

No Recall Intended

Washington, Aug. 23 (AP)—The army says it could—but doesn't plan to—call back to service most of the commissioned officers mustered out of uniform after the shooting stopped in World War 2. The judge advocate general, chief legal officer of the army, has advised that the great majority of officers are subject to recall until peace agreements have been made with Germany, Japan and Italy—and for six months thereafter. The army, however, said it does not intend to recall them.

Protests Volga Tune

Long Beach, Calif., Aug. 23 (AP)—The Long Beach City Council today disclosed a letter protesting the tootling by the city band—in all innocence—of "The Volga Boatman." Wrote Mrs. Lilly S. Galloway, a music lover of neighboring Santa Monica: "Why, why in the name of Americanism will your city band be allowed to play 'The Volga Boatman'? Let people go to Russia if they wish to hear the slave dirges."

MALIK'S TACTICS BACKFIRE

Jacob Malik, Russia's representative on the United Nations Security Council, was trained in "political sabotage" at the University of Moscow's Diplomacy School.

Since August 1 he has been trying to show the world what an apt pupil he was, his presidency of the Council during August being marked by the most bold-faced obstruction ever practiced in any international organization.

Malik has dropped all pretense of observing even the most elementary rules of Council procedure. His purpose is to see that the Council does not function, rather than to guide its deliberations wisely—as a president should.

The first thought of other Council representatives, once Malik's tactics became clear, was to devise some strategy that would break his cynical filibuster. It was decided, however, to forego that idea and simply meet him on his own ground; in other words, to out-filibuster him.

That choice made sense. Malik and his bosses in the Kremlin probably believed their maneuvers to convert the Security Council into the voice of Russia were pretty clever. Actually, they have backfired. Even fence-sitters like India are disgusted at the ruthless Soviet effort to block the will of the free nations.

Delegates representing the United States, Britain, France, Norway, Ecuador, and other nations, have taken off the kid gloves and dealt with the Russians in the rough manner they deserve. They have repeatedly scored telling blows, exposing the Soviet technique of reversing the truth to blame other nations for her own sins. Jean Chauvel, the French delegate, summed up Malik's method by saying the Russian "tells us this table is a chair, and then repeats it a hundred times."

As long as the Security Council's awful August is to be nothing but a propaganda slugging match, the non-Communist countries could well go further toward discrediting Russia's fraudulent claims to bring a peace-loving nation.

For example, Malik told the Council the North Koreans' Russian-made arms consisted wholly of material bought from the Soviet forces when they withdrew from that area in 1948. We already have had pictures of Russian-made shells dated 1950, seized by the U. S. Army from North Korean troops. Now come reports that more shells, some grenades and other weapons of recent Soviet manufacture have been captured. This material is being turned over to U.N. observers in Korea possibly for shipment to Lake Success.

Not only should it be sent to U.N. headquarters, but a couple of 1950 Russian grenades ought to be placed on the Security Council table smack in front of Malik. So far, this August performance at Lake Success has been a battle of words. Malik is never at loss for words to combat somebody else's words.

But he might find it extremely difficult to talk with one of his own grenades staring him in the face and calling him a liar every second of the way.

FASCINATING BASEBALL

The double play, perfection of which won immortality for Tinker, Evers and Chance of the Chicago Cubs, is one of the special treats of baseball. But the triple play, abruptly retiring the side in the swift and flawless handling of a single batted ball, is one of the game's rarities.

Up to a late hour on the afternoon of August 15, 1950, no triple play had ever occurred in the biggest park of the major leagues, the Cleveland Stadium, some twenty years old. Then it happened. A sharp line drive which should have been a hit for George Kell of the Detroit Tigers was snagged by Bob Kennedy of the Cleveland Indians and turned into two more outs by catching runners off second and first. History was made. Would Cleveland fans wait for next twenty years to see another triple play? On the contrary, two days later Owen Friend of the St. Louis Browns started an even more spectacular one by pulling down a liner hit by the Indians' Dale Mitchell, himself making the second out at third base and then tossing to second to finish the triple play.

Now, by the law of averages, Cleveland should wait forty years for its next triple play. That's baseball. Is it any wonder that so many thousands of people find it the most fascinating thing that happens all summer?

When the traffic cop makes the "pull over" signal, it's a little late to check the speedometer.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THE CENTER OF POWER

As this war proceeds, it becomes clearer and clearer that those upon whom the President depends most are Stuart Symington, chairman of the National Security Resources Board, Oscar L. Chapman, secretary of Interior, W. Averell Harriman, advisor on foreign affairs, and General Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff. And about in that order. John R. Steelman of the presidential secretariat also plays an important role, particularly on labor matters.

Stuart Symington is a businessman who has shown unusual administrative ability in the organization of the air force as a separate arm of the national defense. As secretary of the air force, he made a valiant fight for a 70-group force and stuck by his guns in spite of presidential opposition. He and James Forrestal disagreed on the ratio between navy and air force expenditures; he also disagreed with Louis Johnson on the ratio of the air force to the total budget. There can be no question as to his ability.

Oscar L. Chapman is a New Deal bureaucrat who is now secretary of interior. Except for a short period as a probation officer in Colorado, his entire public and business career and experience has been limited to the Department of Interior.

Averell Harriman is the son of the great railroad builder from whom he inherited a large fortune. He has had some business experience, mostly of a directorial type. He has the distinction of attending practically every one of Mr. Roosevelt's conferences with Churchill or Stalin or both. Actually, he attended more such conferences, I think, than any other person including the President himself. In recent years, he has been a roving ambassador associated with E.C.A. He is perhaps the only official still in the government, with the exception of David K. Niles, who knows exactly where the body is buried. He seems to be the only one in Mr. Roosevelt's immediate entourage who has not written a book about Roosevelt and his doings.

Averell Harriman can be useful to the President and the country because he knows, or should know, precisely how the Russians managed to snatch the victory in World War II away from us. He was in on every phase of that transaction. Whether he approved of all the steps taken by President Roosevelt or not, he has never disclosed publicly.

General Omar Bradley needs no particular introduction.

It grows increasingly obvious that Dean Acheson's influence has waned. He conducts a constant propaganda barrage against General Douglas MacArthur. The origin of these stories becomes known because the Acheson clique in the press and the radio are very well known and his line can be traced through them. He is being retained in office through Mr. Truman's sense of loyalty, but it is unthinkable that the President needs a secretary of state and also an advisor on foreign affairs, with the advisor senior in service and experience to the secretary. That sort of duplication can only mean that one is not needed.

Furthermore, Dean Acheson's usefulness is limited by two facts: One, that the center of our problem is Asia, concerning which he has never been correct; secondly, that, in time of war, the commander of the troops does what he has to and General MacArthur mistrusts Dean Acheson and is aware of the antagonistic emanations from the State Department, particularly since the general's visit to Formosa. In time of war, that sort of sniping is unforgivable.

A major weakness in this situation is the absence of productive skill within the government. We shall win or lose World War III, as we defeated the enemy in World War I and World War II, because of our productive capacity. Bernard Baruch took charge of that in World War I and delegated authority to an extraordinarily competent group of industrialists. In World War II, William S. Knudsen, Charles E. Wilson of General Electric, William L. Batt and a host of other industrialists gave us a magnificent performance. We out-produced the world.

No such arrangements are being made in this war. Instead, industrial production is being handled by bureaucrats who have never produced anything but memoranda and red-tape. This is a dangerous lapse in organization for war and could be costly in American lives.

Those who do not know how, cannot produce.

PAIN IN NECK

In many cases the cause of pain at back of neck, shoulder, and down the arm has been found to be rupture or hernia of the disk or cushion between two spinal bones in the neck. This rupture of a disk occurs most frequently in the lower end of the spine between the two large hip bones. In rupture of a disk at any part of the spinal column, operation to remove the disk is considered the best treatment, though some of the less severe cases are helped by a snug-fitting belt which must be worn for months and, in some cases, for years.

However, that all pain in the neck is not caused by a rupture of a disk in spinal column at the neck is pointed out by Dr. T. G. Randolph in Archives of Ear and Throat. He states that allergy, being sensitive to various substances, is the cause of many cases of nuchal (neck) myalgia (pain in muscles), that is, pain in muscles of neck. It is sometimes called posterior cervical myalgia. Certain foods and inhalants (house dust) were stated to be the cause of pain in back of neck in several cases. In many of these cases of pain in back of neck, physicians, because they can find no apparent cause for this pain—no ruptured disk or other injury, no arthritis due to infection—naturally think that nervousness or emotional disturbances cause the pain because of the tenseness with which these individuals hold all their nerves and muscles, including muscles of back of neck.

"Pulling, drawing, tightness and aching of the neck muscles are some of the most usually encountered symptoms observed in the course of performing individual tests for the diagnosis of food allergy," he writes. "Technicians are trained to observe whether the patient stretches his neck as if his collar were too tight, as telltale evidence of the onset of such neck symptoms. As the patient stretches the neck and turns his head from side to side, he generally starts to rub or massage the back of his neck."

It is because these neck symptoms can be brought on by eating certain foods that Dr. Randolph suggests allergy tests by the family physician or an allergist where other causes of neck pain are not found.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

(Ed. Note—While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, his column will be written by members of his staff.)

Washington — It has been hushed up, but the F.B.I. clapped another suspected subversive agent in jail last week. He is William Wolfe Weisband of Arlington, Va., who was arrested in Los Angeles after being trailed by government agents for months.

Weisband was employed for seven years as an analyst in one of the government's top-secret defense agencies. For security reasons, we have been asked not to identify the agency or the nature of its highly classified work.

It can be revealed, however, that Weisband was abruptly suspended, without pay, last May as a bad security risk. Shortly after his suspension, Weisband and his wife drove to California "to see a friend."

The F.B.I. had the pair under constant surveillance all the way from Washington to Los Angeles.

As Weisband was preparing to return to Washington, he was subpoenaed by a Los Angeles federal grand jury investigating espionage. At that time he was asked only a few perfunctory questions—his name, age, home address, etc. He was ordered to come before the grand jury one week later, for further questioning.

This time he failed to show up, giving the excuse that he had insufficient funds to remain in Los Angeles. So he returned home—with the F. B. I. again trailing him across the country.

On August 2, Weisband received a third summons to appear before the Los Angeles grand jury. He decided to comply with this order and returned to the west coast. Upon his arrival on August 16, he was arrested and jailed on a technical charge of contempt, for failing to respond to the second subpoena.

A stocky, dark-haired man in his early forties, Weisband is a Russian-born, naturalized American. Before the war he was a hotel clerk in Los Angeles. In 1942 he entered the army and was later commissioned a lieutenant.

(Note: Weisband's pretty, raven-haired wife, a North Carolina girl whom he married 18 months ago, was also fired from the same government agency. However, the F.B.I. does not suspect her of being mixed up in any spying.)

Voteless Americans

The world looks upon Washington as the heart and hope of democracy, yet here are some unbelievable facts about the U. S. capital: Only two capital cities outside the Iron Curtain do not permit their citizens to vote—Washington, D. C. and Canberra, Australia. . . . Our American forefathers fought the Revolution because they were forced to pay taxes without representation. Yet, today, D. C. residents pay more federal taxes than those in 25 of the 48 states, still get no voice in how those taxes are spent. . . . Congress has granted suffrage to the natives of Guam, but still denies it to the citizens of the national capital. . . . Because American citizens living in Washington have no vote, Congress must take time out to decide petty, municipal problems. Last year Congress spent more than 3,000 hours on local district matters. . . . For example, it took acts of Congress to govern the sale of rock fish, to determine whether butter should be served at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, and to decide what to do about a herd of goats in the District of Columbia. . . . Once Congress had to interrupt the debate on the Marshall Plan to give D. C. officials the right to tear down a pair of old gateposts. . . . A Gallup poll shows that the public overwhelmingly favors giving their fellow Americans in Washington the right to vote. Both the Republican and Democratic parties have pledged home rule for the people of Washington. Yet Congress has ignored all this and pigeonholed the "home rule" bill.

Bean's Depesheet

Washington's noted political dopester, Louis H. Bean, has given intimates some private postscripts to his new book on elections, "The Midterm Battle."

Though forecasting defeat for the big guns in the Senate, Bean admits a number of "fuzzy factors" make a prediction on the coming elections difficult.

"One is Korea," says Bean. "If the war draws public attention away from politics, it might reduce the turnout of voters, which would hurt the Democrats in the big industrial centers."

This happened in 1942 when many people failed to vote, because they were moving around and couldn't register, or had good jobs and just weren't interested in midterm congressional elections.

This, plus a possible "protest" vote by those who blame the administration for higher living costs, won't help the Democrats. On the other hand, Bean foresees the likelihood of a possible downward trend in isolationism this November, which would help Democratic candidates.

"The fact that we are at war probably will undercut the isolationist issue and prove beneficial to some midwest Democrats who looked like sure losers before the Korean invasion," the political seer observes.

Professor Dropped

Here's the inside story of how James F. Pinckney, political science professor at North Carolina's Davidson College, almost was named chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Truman was all set to appoint Pinckney, but changed his mind when he learned that the college professor had backed corporation lawyer Willis Smith against Sen. Frank Graham in the recent North Carolina primary.

However, the President received no protest from Graham. In fact, when friends urged Graham to object to Pinckney's appointment, the Christianly Carolinian replied:

"I bear no grudges because I lost the election. Anybody has a right to oppose me, or vote against me, under our free, democratic system."

Graham's campaign managers, however, took a different view. Without his knowledge, they lodged a vigorous protest with the Democratic national committee. Word was passed on to Truman, who dropped the college man like a hot rivet.

Note: Graham's fair-dealing in the battle against Smith sometimes left campaign workers goggle-eyed. When Graham saw one of his own campaign posters in a mill town, warning that mill workers' wages might drop to 10 cents an hour if Smith was elected, he promptly tore it down.

"That's untrue and unfair," Graham explained. "Everybody knows that mill workers will never go back to 10 cents an hour in these times."

Malik Tactics Planned to Cover Truth That Russians Were Aggressors in Korea

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Aug. 23—What is the true importance of the tactics being pursued by Jacob Malik, the Soviet delegate to the United Nations, in constantly calling America an "aggressor?" Why does the Kremlin place so much emphasis on the Malik speeches?

To accept offhand the theory that the Russian purpose is just to convince the people of the United States that American forces instigated the episode in Korea is to credit the Soviet propagandists with less intelligence than they probably have. They certainly know that a powerful American system of newspaper, periodical and radio distribution of the facts would prevent any widespread acceptance of any such Russian charges.

Then what is the real idea back of the Malik propaganda? It is beginning to be believed here that Malik is leading from weakness rather than strength and that the Politburo is afraid the truth about the Russian aggression in North Korea will get back to the Russian people! It is, therefore, to argue with their own people that the spectacular attack at Lake Success has been staged. What better platform for seemingly authoritative statements could have been erected to suit the Russian propaganda directed to their own populace?

There are lessons to be learned from the episode. The Soviet government evidently respects propaganda far more than does the American government as an instrument of international policy. The Soviets have sympathizers in small groups in different parts of the world who hear over the radio the official party line, and it may be the Kremlin strategists think they can sway public opinion in Asia and Latin America. The United Nations is an excellent sounding board apparently. If this is so, then the allied nations have not used it to the extent that they might.

Certainly the rebuttals of the Malik speeches are not sharp and incisive nor planned from the propaganda standpoint of counter-attack. The speeches thus far of the American and British representatives have been meritorious as scholarly arguments and oratorical efforts, but propaganda techniques require offensive as well as defensive strategy.

Thus, the failure of the Russian government to return prisoners to Japan and Germany is being announced as a subject for the United Nations Assembly to consider next month, but it is a much better subject for debate right now in connection with the Korean episode, for it shows that the Soviet government is concealing the truth on a very important subject. The prisoners either have been liquidated or else are still working at hard labor. The inhumane aspects can be emphasized as proof of ruthlessness.

Similarly the atrocities committed by the North Korean troops do not seem to have occasioned much attention at Lake Success. The Russian delegate, who protects and defends North Korea in debate, has not been put on the spot for requesting a North Korean representative to attend peace conferences when that representative is the head of a faction guilty of inhumane warfare.

Likewise, the cablegram from the Chinese Communist foreign minister to Delegate Malik has not been condemned as it should have been by every member of the United Nations council, whether or not diplomatic recognition has already been extended by some of those countries. For the Communist government in China to accuse the United States of aggression is to reveal publicly that the government at Peiping is under Soviet control even to the extent of voicing Moscow propaganda. Under such circumstances, it is difficult to see why action should not be taken condemning the Communist government in China and declaring that government to be incapable of carrying out honorably its international obligations. Plainly the future admission of Communist China into the United Nations should be blocked because of the charges leveled against the United States, whose traditional friendship for China and Korea is well established. If the government of China is under the control of Moscow, it is not an independent government but a tool of the Communist mechanism.

The use of a strong counter-attack against Malik's propaganda would perhaps have more effect inside Russia than most people in this country have been inclined to believe.

Inadequate Defense Gave Away Contract

By OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

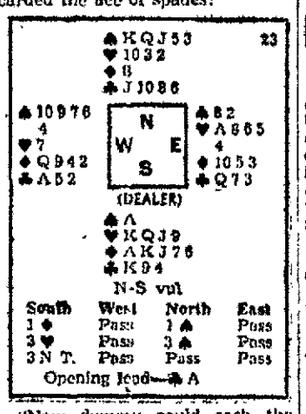

"There may be other ways to make this contract," writes a Baltimore correspondent, "but I think the way this hand was actually played is the most interesting.

"West decided to lead the only unbid suit, and chose the remarkable opening lead of the ace of clubs. South saw that he was going to have trouble getting to the dummy and therefore dropped the king of clubs!

"West dared not shift to a different suit, since that would give declarer the chance to take the ace of spades and force entry into the dummy in clubs later on. He therefore led the five of clubs at the second trick.

"East took the queen of clubs, thinking that South had dropped a singleton king. When South followed suit, East realized that South was desperate for entries to dummy. He therefore returned his club immediately, in the hope that the entry would be less useful to declarer at this point than it would be later on.

"Dummy won with the ten of clubs, and speedily cashed the jack of clubs, on which South discarded the ace of spades!

"Now dummy could cash the king and queen of spades, South discarding low diamonds.

"Declarer then abandoned the spades in order to knock out the ace of hearts. He therefore made his contract with two spades, three hearts, two diamonds and two clubs."

The play is very interesting, and declarer is to be congratulated for his very skillful play of a rather doubtful contract. I am afraid the defenders didn't deserve quite as much credit.

If West had made the normal opening lead of a spade, South would probably still be playing the hand. Even when West opened the ace of clubs, the defense was not lost.

It should have been apparent to East that his partner would not have led the ace of clubs if he held as many as four of that suit. Hence East should have refused to win the second club trick and declarer would have been doomed to defeat.

House flies are one of the world's most potent disease carriers.

Vegetables Mean Dollars

Tel Aviv, Israel (AP)—Israelis say canned vegetables are worth "their weight in gold"—and the gold they want is more foreign money. A canning factory at Rannana reported it had received large orders from abroad and had boosted its employment schedule to two shifts of 140 workers to prepare shipments. The factory already has shipped 18,000 cans of cabbage and 40,000 cans of cucumbers to England. Israeli officials are to transport 100,000 Israeli cucumbers to the United States.

English Death Rate Lower

London (AP)—The death rate in England and Wales in 1948 was the lowest ever recorded, but the cancer toll is increasing. The Registrar General's statistical review of the year just published here shows deaths at 468,645, a rate of 11 per thousand of the civilian population and a decrease of 46,946 on the previous year. Previous lowest rate was 11.4 per thousand in 1930, when deaths numbered 455,427. Deaths from cancer accounted for 79,432, or 16.9 per cent, compared with 15.1 per cent in 1947 and 13.9 per cent in 1938.

Do You Remember

by SOPHIE MILLER

The mention of "Down Rent War" of Colonial days in this column brought comment from readers on the present day "Rent Control" or Rent Dictatorship" as some termed it. It seems since rents were frozen there is a battle to perhaps abolish it entirely. Who remembers the famous American who said something to the effect, "The way to get rid of a bad law is to enforce it?" Was the 18th Amendment abolished that way?

A. Arnold Liebner of the State of New York Temporary State House Rent Commission, 280 Broadway, New York city, who was working on old records of Kingston, said that he found an increase of our population in the last 10 years of some 270, and only some 292 new dwellings built in the last four years. Some 162 apartments have been altered by landlords, that is large apartments or houses formed into smaller dwellings. Within three or four miles of Kingston, there were only 210 new dwellings built within the last couple of years. Just where did the some 5,000 or more veterans who married within the last four years set up housekeeping?

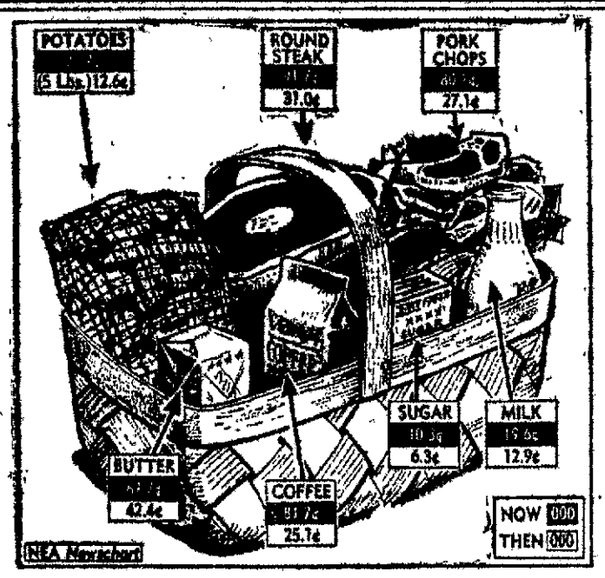

Speaking to some old time painters and carpenters, they said, before rent control, the minute Spring was in the air, there were dozens of jobs at one time, for everyone who owed anything dreamed all winter about repair and decorating and were anxious to get going come spring. Now, landlords repair only their own living quarters, but seldom do anything for their tenants unless absolutely necessary as they feel their expenses will not be recovered in rent.

Remember May 30th, the day of the year when everybody who intended to move did. Loads of family furniture seemed to be going up and down steps no matter where you looked. Everybody delighted with their new apartment, now you hardly see a moving van with family furniture. They'd like to move but can't find an apartment. I remember some folks just about moved every year. Today the tenant is so wedded to the landloard and visa-versa that in spite of hard feelings they still stick together. The landlord no longer has possession of his property, only the privilege of paying the increased taxes. Olden days the minute the tenant moved out the landlord and painters got busy and redid it for the incoming tenant. Landlords charged what they could get with very little increase for there were plenty of apartments to go around, and some even remained empty for a long time, so if he couldn't get his desired rent he would drop it to suit his needs and then perhaps raise it later without control from anyone and to the satisfaction of both landlord and tenant.

Looking back in the "Ulster Plebian" of May 15th, 1833 of Kingston when many families could not find apartments due to the boom days of the canal. Population was increasing at the rate of 10 per cent in some sections. In the village of Kingston and also Rondout about 20 buildings were going up. Eddyville where the D. & H. Canal entered tide-water several buildings were going up. Ellenville also had about 20 buildings under construction, also many buildings along the canal were being built for the new comers. But they managed to get along very nicely without rent control, I guess, according to historical records.

Worry British Innkeepers

London (AP)—Laws framed hundreds of years ago, when highwaymen terrorized the roads, are worrying British innkeepers. The matter came to a head after a motorist claimed damages for loss of his car stolen from an inn car park. The judge found the innkeeper liable. The old laws were made for protection of travelers against highwaymen. Innkeepers say they were quite reasonable when framed. A thief could hardly break into stables and bring out a horse, much less harness it to a carriage or coach, without the landlord or stable boy knowing it. Today, they say, a car can be driven away from a car park without the landlord's knowing that the driver is not the owner.

AND GOING UP!—Is the little lady complaining that the ten bucks you give her for groceries doesn't buy very much? Brother, she's so right! Prices on many foods are almost twice as high now as when OPA price controls were ordered on April 12, 1941. Newschart above, showing average comparative prices of seven basic items in the housewife's market basket, is based on a 19-city survey. Coffee has taken the biggest leap, but is followed closely by pork chops and round steak.

Pitching Horseshoes

IT'S ALL IN THE MIND

Last night at the "21" Club, I sat spielbound as the owner of an advertising agency sounded off on world conditions in general and the proposed hike in income taxes in particular. To hear him tell it, as he wept into his imported beer, the Internal Revenue Department was going to pauperize everybody and his brother, and heck, there would be no incentive for a smart fellow to work.

As this prophet of penury continued to argue it was all over but the starving, I couldn't help but think of Sidney Zollicoffer Mitchell, the fellow who had $18,000,000 and considered himself a poor man.

Back in 1929, this gent with the curious middle moniker was probably the richest man in the world—and if he wasn't, he could afford to match pennies with whoever was. Thanks to 30 enterprising years, during which he had organized Electric Bond and Share, American Power and Light, American Gas and Electric, and National Power and Light, he had trunkfuls of blue-chip securities which The Wall Street Journal estimated were worth over a billion and a half.

He lived king-size—a mansion in New York, a plantation in the South and an estate on Long Island which featured one of the most elaborate sunken gardens in the world.

Then came 1929 and Black Friday on Wall Street when 16 million shares were tossed overboard between 10 and 3. And a couple of years later a solemn auditor walked into Mitchell's office and informed him that his billion and a half had shrunk to a measly 18 million.

Well, to you and me 18 million simoleons means the promised land with an ice-cream parlor on every corner, but to Sidney Z., it was like being halfway up the hill to the poorhouse. "The country is going to the bow-wows," he announced to everyone who would listen, and shortly thereafter he nailed shut the mansion on his estate and moved into the gardener's cottage. And the following Spring, figuring even that was too rich for his blood and bankroll, he put the estate up for sale.

In the years which followed, he lived quietly and thriftily, and though he never got down to selling apples on street corners it's a cinch he didn't buy many.

One February night six years ago, the multi-millionaire died, still convinced that every wolf in the Western Hemisphere was snarling at his door. He left the measly 18 million intact.

All of which, I contend— the ad agency executive notwithstanding —only goes to prove that money is relative, and that a man's relatives are apt to wind up with his money if he gets the notion that he's poorer than his bankbook says he is.

On, to put it another way, as George S. Kaufman once did, "One man's Mede is another man's Persian."

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

New York, Aug. 23 (AP)—The family fight over how to govern the two problem children—inflation and the federal debt—is out in the open today.

The secretary of the treasury (who is responsible to the President) and the Federal Reserve Board (responsible to Congress but not to the President) are at loggerheads. The treasury wants cheap money and easy borrowing terms for the government. The board wants dear money and less inflation. The treasury, of course, denies that its policy would mean more inflation.

The first day's tally of their now open feud:

1. A statement by Secretary Snyder defending his fight for low interest rates on the government debt.

2. Action by the reserve banks. Interest rates went up on some forms of bank credit, and talk was heard of this spreading to most forms of business loans. This could take time, but eventually it could have a wide effect on the entire economy—as Snyder himself points out.

Price Drops

The price of short-term treasury securities, to be refunded within the next six weeks, went down. Holders of some $6 billion of 2 per cent and 2½ per cent treasury bonds and more than $7 billion of 1⅛ per cent treasury certificates were disappointed that Snyder planned to exchange them for 1¼ per cent 13-month notes on Sept. 15 and Oct. 1.

The federal reserve banks bought up the offerings, but only at a lower price than they paid last week.

The price of long-term higher-interest bearing government securities went up, as investors turned to them. Many had been hoping that Snyder would offer more of these—attractive to investors and not marketable by banks when they seek quick money to make business loans.

Many in Wall Street saw these two shifts in government security prices as indicating that investors may be loathe to take up all of the $13.5 billion the treasury will offer. What the public won't take, the federal reserve system will. But since the price paid over the counter by later buyers might in that case be below par, the actual yield would be higher than the 1¼ per cent upon which Snyder has set his heart, these observers figure.

The reserve board's reasoning on this is that if it goes on buying up all the treasury notes at the high price Snyder wants and thus lets him maintain his low interest rate, the board will be pumping more and more cash into a bloated economy. That is because the board expects the banks to sell more and more of these low interest bearing treasury notes and put the cash into more profitable, if inflationary, business loans.

His Answers

Snyder's plea yesterday was for the reserve banks to go on supporting the government securities market as "our first line of defense on the financial front." His answers to the board's arguments are:

1. The treasury's first obligation is to keep government finances sound and at the same time "fulfill our responsibilities to the millions of federal security holders throughout the nation."

2. Banks are buying relatively few government securities today anyway. And, therefore, the new short term notes won't be inflationary.

3. Large investors, like insurance companies, wouldn't be interested in the long-term 2½ per cent bonds some wanted the treasury to issue, because they are busy buying up higher yielding corporate bonds and home mortgages.

Meanwhile, the reserve banks of New York, Boston and Minneapolis raised their discount rate to member banks from 1½ per cent to 1¾ per cent. These things then followed.

Interest rates went up on call money on stock exchange collateral to brokers; on loans to government bond dealers against government securities; on some commercial paper, which are unsecured loans made to leading business firms.

These changes may be on the fringe of the nation's economy, but more serious interest hikes may follow.

Talk of Kearney For Nomination as Republican Choice

Washington, Aug. 23 (AP)—New York's Republican House delegation is talking of Rep. Bernard W. (Pat.) Kearney (R), Gloversville, for the party's senatorial nomination.

That is the word from Rep. John Taber, Auburn, chairman of the group. He told a reporter that the discussion of Kearney is "serious."

Kearney's name has figured prominently in speculation concerning the nomination but, up to this point, nobody was willing to be quoted about it.

Taber was asked whether he thought there was any substance to the talk about Kearney.

"As far as we here in the House are concerned," Taber said, "Pat Kearney is being very seriously considered. He would be an ideal candidate from every point of view and I think he is the man to beat Senator (Herbert H.) Lehman."

Lehman, former governor, last year defeated Republican John Foster Dulles in a special election for the remaining one year of the term left vacant by the resignation of Senator Robert F. Wagner (D), New York city.

Lehman Hasn't Spoken

Lehman has not said whether he will be available for the Democratic nomination, which the party will make at its Rochester convention, Sept. 6-7. However, the feeling is strong that he will be the nominee.

Taber said that Kearney, by virtue of his long military record in both the national guard and the regular army—plus his interest and activity in veteran's affairs—would win him "a lot of votes."

Taber described as "excellent" Kearney's legislative record during his eight years in the House.

Kearney, 61, is again a candidate for the House but should he be chosen to make the Senate race he could decline the House nomination.

Sure He'll Run

It is pretty well agreed that Kearney would be unlikely to turn down the opportunity to run for the Senate.

Republican Taber, as might be expected in an election year, takes a dim view of Democrat Lehman. He illustrated by relating the following anecdote:

"When I was chairman of the House Appropriations Committee (in the 80th Republican-controlled Congress) Senator Lehman, then head of the now defunct United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration (U. N. R. R. A.), came before us in connection with an appropriation.

"During the course of our question of Senator Lehman, we drew from him the admission that, although he had been head of U.R.R.A. for two years, he had never read the act constituting its establishment."

Taber offered no comment except to arch his frosty eyebrows as if to ask "how about that?"

Mother Denies Student Called U. S. Aggressor

Ithaca, N. Y., Aug. 23 (AP)—The acting president of Cornell University brands "outrageous and indefensible" a Cornell student's reported denunciation of America fighting Korea.

Cornelius W. De Kiewiet said yesterday he had asked the university's faculty committee on student conduct to investigate a report that John Marqusee of 980 Benton avenue, Woodmere, Nassau county, had called for "an end to the brutal American aggression in Korea."

The Czechoslovak News Agency said in one report that Marqusee made the statement last week at a meeting of the World Student Congress in Prague.

Marqusee's mother, Mrs. Jack Marqusee, said at Woodmere, however, that she had received a cable from her son, denying he had made any "individual statement."

The Cornell Faculty Committee may expel a student or provide lesser punishment for student conduct it disapproves.

De Kiewiet said Marqusee's reported remarks were "outrageous and indefensible and wholly out of line with the philosophy of the Cornell student body."

Marqusee, 22, is a senior in Cornell's School of Industrial and Labor Relations. He is an enrolled member of the American Labor Party.

The Ithaca Central Labor Union announced that it had ousted Marqusee as a delegate. Local 961, Hotel and Restaurant Employees and Bartenders International Union, circulated a petition among its members urging international officers to dismiss Marqusee as its business agent.

The funeral of Anna Fahy was held from the Wolf Funeral Home, 340 Broadway, Tuesday at 9:30 a. m., thence to the Sacred Heart Church, Eddyville, where a requiem Mass was offered for the repose of her soul at 10 a. m. by the Rev. Joseph D O'Rourke. Numerous floral offerings and spiritual bouquets in the form of Mass cards testified to the high esteem in which she was held. Members of the family acted as bearers. Burial took place in the family plot in the Ellenville Cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Martha A. Wells, wife of Irving J. Wells, who died Aug. 19, was held from the residence, 85 Franklin street, Tuesday at 2 p. m. There were many floral tributes. Monday evening Rebekah Lodge, No. 48, held a ritualistic service and members of her Sunday school class attended in a body. The service was conducted by the Rev. William R. Peckham, pastor of the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church. Vernon Miller sang, "Abide With Me." Burial was in the Wallkill Valley Cemetery at Walden. Bearers were William Stall, Thomas Miller, Donald and Chester Weeks.

RED TALES IN THE RUNDSCHAU—This reproduction of a page from the Soviet-sponsored German newspaper "Tagliche Rundschau" purportedly shows atrocities committed in Korea by American troops. In the top picture, seven men are tied to posts by soldiers wearing American MP helmets. In the center photograph, a dead Korean woman is curled up with the body of her slain infant in her arms. Picture at left, below, purports to show a North Korean partisan being led to the rear by two American soldiers, one of whom is twisting the Communist's arm. At lower right, a young Korean girl is tied to a post with a target dot over her breast. The caption for this last picture reads: "This innocent young Korean girl serves the murderers as a living target." The accompanying story stated that all the pictures were taken from the pockets of an "American military attache in Seoul."

Syracuse Man Leaps To Death From Plane

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 23 (AP)—A Syracuse man leaped to his death today from a light plane as it flew about 800 feet over Syracuse Airport.

Sheriff's deputies identified him as Harold E Sawyer, about 55, an employe of the Solvay Process Company here.

Harry Ward, operator of a private flying service, said the pilot of the plane, Howard Schaufler, reported that his passenger pulled himself out the door by means of the craft's dual control instruments.

Ward reported the man had come to the airport, identified himself as Mr. Sawyer, and said he contemplated an air trip to Rochester, Minn., to visit the Mayo Clinic but wanted to see first if he would like air travel.

Price Is Forecast

Study Black Market Charge Against Messall

Washington, Aug. 23 (AP)—The Senate Crime Committee today studied testimony that President Truman's former secretary received money in 1945 to help a candy manufacturer get a wartime sugar quota.

David Lubben, the candy man, told the committee yesterday he paid $1,000 or $1,500 to Victor Messall, the former secretary, but failed to get the quota

He testified he bought black market sugar for his factory, the Eatsum Company of New York, and put up large sums to bribe government agents on the track of black market sugar deals.

The committee swiftly summoned Messall, who testified he did not remember either Lubben or dealings with his firm. He conceded this might be due to faulty memory, but insisted he never told anybody his associations with Mr. Truman gave him special influence.

Committee Chairman Kefauver (D-Tenn) said it all added up to "a very sordid" story, but a valuable one to Congress at a time when it is writing laws dealing with a possible revival of rationing.

George Doubts Addition

Washington, Aug 23 (AP)—A top administration leader said today the Senate is likely to add a $3,500,000,00-plus corporation excess profits tax to the $5,000,000,000 tax boosting bill But Chairman George (D-Ga) of the Senate Finance Committee told newsmen he does not think so. Senate tax debate is set to begin tomorrow. It may be a slam-bang affair.

Will Boom Absentee Votes

Albany, N Y, Aug 23 (AP)—New York state expects the Korean war to bring a boom in absentee voting by soldiers in the gubernatorial election next month

IT'S FRESH PEACH TIME

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

Some friends in New Jersey have reminded me that now is the ripening season for their outstanding peaches. One of them sent this recipe for wonderful fresh peach ice cream:

New Jersey Peach Ice Cream
(Made With Sour Cream)
(Serves 8)

One quart sour cream, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 cups sugar, 4 cups crushed peaches.

Combine sour cream, lemon juice and sugar. Add thoroughly crushed peaches. Put mixture in the freezing tray and allow to set. It will take about four hours. No stirring necessary.

Spiced Peaches, New Jersey Style

Six pounds (24 medium) peaches, 2 cups distilled white vinegar, 4 cups sugar, 1 stick cinnamon, broken, 2 tablespoons whole cloves, 1 teaspoon brown ginger root.

Dip the peaches into boiling water. Remove immediately and skin Combine vinegar and sugar.

Add spices tied loosely in cheese cloth bag. Heat to boiling. Add peaches and boil gently until tender but not broken. Remove spice bag. Pack while boiling into hot sterilized jars.

Peach-Apple Jam
(Makes about 8 six-ounce glasses)

Four cups prepared fruit, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1/3 cup lemon juice, 5½ cups sugar, 1 box powdered fruit pectin.

To prepare the fruit: Peel, core and chop fine 1½ pounds fully ripe apples. Peel and pit 2 pounds fully ripe peaches. Chop fine. Combine fruits; measure 4 cups into large saucepan. Grate rind from 1 lemon; measure 1 teaspoon. Reserve. Squeeze juice from 2 or 3 lemons. Measure 1/3 cup into saucepan with fruit

To make the jam: Measure sugar; set aside Place saucepan of fruit over high heat Add powdered fruit pectin and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once stir in sugar Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly Remove from heat Add lemon rind, skim, and ladle quickly into glasses. Paraffin at once

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Green apple-sauce, ready-to-eat cereal, French toast, honey, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Kidney bean salad, sliced tomatoes and sweet onions, toasted English muffins, stewed plums, peanut cookies, tea, milk.

DINNER: Boiled tongue, horseradish sauce, mashed potatoes, buttered snap-beans with sliced white onions, sliced cucumbers, enriched bread, butter or fortified margarine, fresh peach ice cream, coffee, milk.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Aug 23 (AP)—The stock market slowly inched its way ahead today.

Gains extended to around $1 a share for favored issues Most advances were well below that figure.

The market was not a completely one-sided affair. A limited number of shares sold at minor losses and many showed no change at all

The general improvement, small though it was, carried the market on average just above the level prevailing immediately prior to the Korean war.

Trading was even slower than yesterday when 1,550,000 shares changed hands.

Today's cautious mood has prevailed all week. There has been nothing in war, business or Washington news to change trading strategy drastically but after a five-week running advance traders are inclined to go slow

U S. Steel was a consistent favorite, gaining around 50 cents.

Also up most of the time were Youngstown Sheet, Goodrich, J.I. Case, Boeing, Zenith Radio, International Salt, Western Union, American Telephone, Kennecott Copper, Homestake Mining, du Pont, Westinghouse Electric, Philip Morris, Santa Fe, Chesapeake & Ohio, Standard Oil (N.J.), Sinclair Oil, Pure Oil, and Certain-Teed.

Cautions U. S. to Keep Military Standards Up

Washington, Aug 23 (AP)—State Department Counselor George F. Kennan, stepping aside after several years as a top foreign policy maker, believes the American people will have to maintain a large military establishment for many years to come.

But he hopes they will not accept war with Russia as inevitable

Kennan gained fame in 1947 as the behind-the-scenes architect of the policy of containment by which the U. S began to try to block the spread of Soviet communism in the world.

Good Taste Today

TOO MANY HATS

A reader from the Southwest asks this question: "Can't the wearing of hats be just as overdone as the going without? This is the custom here, where the weather is hot. At lunches everyone wears a hat and at dinners in resta rants a majority of us do too Lately at a concert I noticed that many women wore "evening hats" with formal dresses I'd appreciate knowing what you say about this."

If by formal dresses you mean very low neck and no sleeves, hats would be absurd. If you mean light colored attractive day dresses, then hats would be proper.

Obviously from the Bridegroom's Mother

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it correct at the wedding reception for someone to suggest a toast to the bride's mother and not to the bridegroom's mother?

Answer: If they were seated at the same table, the bridegroom's mother should have been toasted; but if the bridegroom's mother were seated at a separate table, it would have been awkward! As a matter of fact, usually none but the bride and groom are toasted.

Serving Food at Buffet

Dear Mrs. Post When is the proper time to put the food on a buffet table? People, let's say, are invited at seven, cocktails to be served first Therefore, it would not be possible to put the hot food on the table, would it? How much of the food may be put on, as the table is in view of the living room?

Answer. You would wait until about one-third of the guests expected have arrived, put the food on the table, and let people eat as they choose.

Candles

Dear Mrs. Post: Are candles part of an afternoon tea table or are they just proper on a dinner table?

Answer: On the ordinary small everyday afternoon tea table in the living room, they are incorrect. When the dining table is set for a large tea, they are quite proper especially as the days grow shorter.

131 New Polio Cases Reported in State

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 23 (AP)—One hundred and thirty one new cases of polio were reported last week in the state outside of New York city.

The State Health Department said today the year's total had risen to 561. It was 666 for the same period of 1949

The 131 cases reported last week compared to 254 for the corresponding week last year

The department said the decline continued to bear out its early estimate that 1950 would be an "intermediate year" for polio in New York — lower than the 1949 epidemic but higher than average non-epidemic years.

Winstead Wins

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 23 (AP)—Rep. Arthur Winstead, a member of the House Armed Services Committee whose voting record on Korean aid was a campaign target, apparently won renomination over four opponents in Mississippi's Democratic primary.

Mediation Board Plans Brick Parley

William Hazell of the State Mediation Board was working today to arrange a meeting of union and management representatives in an effort to settle the strike of brickhandlers in nine Hudson valley plants, a union spokesman said

Hazell was hopeful of completing details and setting the time for the meeting sometime today, the union man indicated.

Meanwhile, the Star, Terry and Washburn yards, were still operating today. Men were back on their jobs at the first two on Monday and at the Washburn plant yesterday.

The three companies are not members of the Brick Manufacturers Association of the Hudson Valley and their employes agreed to accept a raise of 12½ cents an hour.

The strike closed 12 plants Friday with 1,000 men out, and the return of workmen to the three plants now leaves about 700 still on strike.

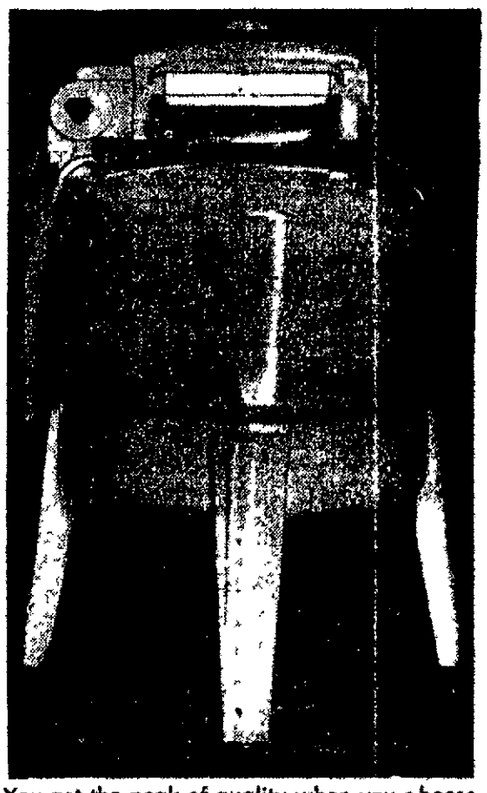

Management said it offered a two-year contract with a raise of eight cents an hour the first year and seven cents the second, and said the union asked raises of from 25 to 37½ cents an hour

The area affected by the strike extends from Coeymans to Beacon All but four plants in that region are members of the manufacturers' association, and one of the four is not operating.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

Korea (AP)—There are some hard Roks with Irish monikers rattling around with the U. S. infantry—thanks to South Korean patriotism and a few G.I candy bars and cigarettes.

Allied Republica of Korea troops are called Roks in official United Nations releases.

But many Roks joining up with the American troops to fight the Reds are given Irish nicknames as well in honor of the Korean's reputation as "the Irish of the East."

More and more Roks are being incorporated into American fighting units on a volunteer basis.

G.I.s Christen Them

The South Korean rookies proudly wear their Irish nicknames of G.I.-christening on white cloth badges pinned to their breasts for identification purposes.

And they answer to them at rollcall in the First Battalion of the U. S. 7th Cavalry Regiment.

Thus Kim Hwan Row may become a Kimmie O'Toole or a Reilly and Hak Choo Kang answers to the name of Ryan or Kilroy in an accent no son of Erin would ever recognize. They are about as Irish as the Notre Dame lineup.

But they are first class fighting men in "Clainos Clouters," a battalion commanded by Lt Col. Peter D. Clainos of Manchester, N. H. His men are known as "The Firemen of the Western Front" because of their emergency rides to backstop holes in the allied Naktong river defense line.

The Eighth Army has underway a program to integrate South Korean soldiers with each American unit. But "Pistol Pete" Clainos didn't wait for trained republic of Korean soldiers to be assigned to him.

His men had been impressed by the sturdy help given them by volunteer native bearers in battle. So they went into Taegu to seek volunteers who would join them as actual fighting men. They got six members of the Korean constabulary. The six were promptly issued two candy bars and two packs of cigarettes and given hot meal. That word swept through the city like a fresh wind across the rice paddies. Immediately the battalion was swamped with volunteers.

Colonel Clainos accepted 140 and immediately established a "buddy system" to indoctrinate his Roks into American army ways. Each Rok was teamed with a G.I. who shared every detail of his life with him—from cleaning a rifle to going to the latrine.

Treated as Americans

"There is no more effective way to utilizing South Korean manpower than by making their men part and parcel of an American outfit" said Clainos. "They eat like an American, dress like an American and cut their hair like an American. They aren't treated as cannon fodder or assigned just to fatigue details. They share everything just as if they were G.I.'s."

So far no arrangement has been made to pay the Roks. But a regimental commander in their own army draws only $12 a month. And the Rok captain, Soo Whan Chung, says his men aren't worried about money. He is a stocky 25-year-old graduate of the Japanese Military Academy who has to be discouraged from enforcing discipline by whacking his Roks broadside with a samurai sword he always carries. He is credited with killing seven Reds with the sword in hand-to-hand combat.

Buddy System Works

"We get along like two fingers on the same hand," said Captain Soo. "The buddy system will make the United Nations war effort 100 per cent effective. All my men are willing to give their lives if ordered to do so."

Clainos said the volunteers had proved themselves able soldiers and Capt. Art Westburg of (1206 Tenth street, Northwest, Washington, D. C.) commander of a company, added:

"They like it here so well that we couldn't beat them away with clubs now."

"They really catch on fast—they have the spirit," said Master Sgt. Clyde R. Pinkerton of Poplar Bluff, Mo. "They belong."

The Rok soldiers and their GI buddies overcome the language barrier by drawing pictures in the sand of their bivouac area, of tanks and airplanes and other military weapons and learn each others words for them.

One veteran sergeant philanthropically undertook to teach a few Rok buddies the intricacies of poker.

"You know," he said later, "in some ways these boys learn too damn quick."

After Cleopatra's suicide, Egypt became a Roman province.

Why I Believe in God

As a young medical student, Dr. A. J. Cronin was an unbeliever. He considered the human body no more than a complex machine—and he couldn't find an immortal soul in any autopsy.

In September Reader's Digest (now on sale), the now-famous author reveals how experience and the strong faith of others finally brought him to the firm belief that there IS a God.

First of the Fine Cars in Value

It's a Very Satisfying Feeling

Yes, it's good to slip into a truly fine automobile and sense its richness, its comfort, its room.

And there's a great thrill in touching off the waiting power of a great-hearted straight-eight and feeling its swift response at any speed.

It's fun to count the quick, admiring glances thrown your way.

It's nice to have a car that parks easily, for all its inches. It's very pleasant to do away with gearshifting and clutch-pedal pushing, and know in its stead the utter smoothness of Dynaflow Drive's silken transmission of power.

And still that doesn't probe the depths of a ROADMASTER owner's secret satisfaction.

For while he knows he has a fine car, by its look, its feel, its appointments—

While he has performance at his command that needs play second fiddle to no other on the road—

While he enjoys a very special measure of creature comfort in the quite matchless gentleness of ROADMASTER's ever-level ride—

He knows too that he has made an exceptionally wise investment.

He has spent his money for the things that make a fine car fine—and nothing simply for show.

He has paid the lowest price per pound in the fine-car field—he has the very satisfying feeling of knowing his dollars have given him solid merit, and solid merit alone.

We'd like to have you try ROADMASTER in honest comparison with the highest-priced cars to be found. We'd like to have you try to match it for room, for comfort, for finish, for handling ease and for ability on the road.

Then check the prices—and see if your own sense of value doesn't advise signing up right now with your Buick dealer for a Buick ROADMASTER.

ANNOUNCEMENT

TO OUR TRADE

For the past months, there have been many increases in the cost of furniture. We have absorbed these additional costs as long as possible, as we wished to avoid price increases to the consumer.

Recently, however, as you undoubtedly know, there have been major increases in the price of all merchandise. We now find it necessary to increase the prices of our merchandise on all orders taken after August 31st. In determining the new prices we have made every effort to keep the increases down to a maximum of ten per cent.

ALL ORDERS PLACED PRIOR TO AUGUST 31st, 1950, WILL BE FILLED AT THE PRICES FOR WHICH THOSE ORDERS WERE TAKEN.

We are very grateful for your past patronage, and in the event of curtailment we will continue to follow the policy of furnishing our customers with the best possible furniture at the lowest possible price.

Sincerely,
Andrew J. Magaldino

Gunmen Get $1,640

New York, Aug. 23 (AP)—Three gunmen escaped with $1,640 last night after holding up the owners and a clerk in the Mariners' Supplies Company store at 616 Eleventh avenue, near 45th street. The men rifled the cash register and took money from Irving Seliger, of 2436 Nostrand avenue, Brooklyn, and David Eagle, of 28-15 34th street, Astoria, Queens, the store owners, and Leopold Finsterbush, of 2372 Nostrand avenue, Brooklyn, a clerk. The robbers, one a Negro and the other two white men, all armed, escaped after ordering their victims into a rear room.

Hurricane Over

Miami, Fla., Aug. 23 (AP)—The second hurricane of the season has blown itself out. The tropical storm, spawned in the same general area as hurricane No. 1, degenerated into a wide squall area in the eastern Caribbean Sea last night after smashing tiny Antigua Island with 120-mile an hour winds. Both the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico were buffeted by gusty winds and heavy rain.

Western Australia has a population of 525,000 in an area more than three times larger than Texas.

Still Need Firemen

Men between the ages of 18 and 55 are still being sought for registration as auxiliary firemen in the city's civilian defense corps. Persons willing to serve in that capacity may register any time at the Central Fire Station on East O'Reilly street. The response since the first call for auxiliary firemen has "not been too good," Fire Chief Joseph M. Murphy reports.

Carmel Church in Rochester, followed by a nuptial Mass.

The church was decorated with baskets of white gladioli, with satin ribbons marking the pews. Miss Kay Guliano was the soloist, singing "Ave Maria" and "Oh Lord I Am Not Worthy."

Given in marriage by her brother, Dominick Pauline, the bride wore a gown of white lace over organdy with square neckline and a train. Her fingertip veil was attached to an open-crown bonnet trimmed with lilies of the valley. She carried two white orchids on a prayerbook with satin streamers.

Miss Joséphine Louise Mautone Marries Charles S. Barone in St. Joseph's Church

Miss Josephine Louise Mautone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luigi Mautone of Linderman avenue extension, became the bride Sunday of Charles S. Barone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barone of Glasco, in a double ring, afternoon ceremony performed by the Rev. John D. Simmons at St. Joseph's Church.

The organist was Robert Cooper of Kingston, a fraternity brother of the groom, and the soloists were Andy Hummel and Graham Stone. Mr. Hummel sang "Ave Maria" and Mr. Stone "Agnus Dei" and "Panis Angelicus." The church was decorated with assorted shades of gladioli, and candles.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white slipper satin, with a sweetheart neckline of illusion net, trimmed with wide imported Belgian lace, long pointed sleeves, long bodice, shirred in front, and a chapel length train. The bottom of the skirt was caught up, revealing tiers of ruffled imported lace. Her fingertip veil was caught to a heart-shaped tiara of seed pearls and bugle beads. The veil was of illusion net edged with scalloped, hand-made Belgian lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses.

Maid of honor was Miss Rose Mautone, sister of the bride, who wore a powder blue taffeta gown with a sheer nylon yoke, lace trimmed bertha, full skirt with lace insertion, and matching lace trimmed mitts. A shoulder length veil was caught to a headpiece of powder blue ruffled net with tiny satin bows. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink and white gladioli.

Bridesmaids were Miss Evelyn Mautone, sister of the bride, and Miss Beverly Proper, 65 Andrew street. They wore gowns of pink taffeta, with off the shoulder berthas, sheer nylon yokes and matching taffeta mitts. Shoulder length veils were caught to sweetheart bonnets of pink net and flowers. They carried cascade bouquets of pink and white gladioli.

The two flower girls were Theresa Muzzuca of East Kingston, and Marianne Muzzuca of Kingston, both cousins of the groom. They wore Nile green taffeta gowns with sweetheart necklines, and full skirts caught up with tiny bows revealing ruffles of net. On their heads were bonnets of matching net and satin trimmed with lilies of the valley. They carried old fashioned bouquets of pink roses and mixed flowers.

The attendants' gowns and headpieces were designed and made by Miss Proper.

Best man was Samuel Signorelli of Rochester, a fraternity brother of the groom, and ushers were Louis Barone, of Glasco, cousin of the groom, Samuel Barone, of Brooklyn, uncle of the groom, Patrick Buonfiglio of Glasco, and James Geary of Park street, Kingston.

Footlighters Busy Readying 3 Plays; One for Syracuse

Kingston's little theatre group, the Footlighters, are working under all the pressure and drawbacks of a summer stock cast, preparing simultaneously three programs for their summer-into-fall season.

The Footlighters will open the Play Project at the Syracuse State Fair on Saturday, September 2, with a second production of R. B. Sheridan's "The Critic." Model sets, scenic designs, costumes and lighting are likewise busily being constructed for presentation in the New York State Little Theatre Conference display booth at the fair.

Oscar Wilde's brilliant farce, "The Importance of Being Earnest," is being readied for production on Tuesday, August 29, under the direction of John Mayo of Woodstock.

In the event they are bored with the aforementioned schedule, the Footlighters then "take ten", and rehearse their scheduled radio play, to be broadcast Saturday, September 2. Under the direction of Ernest Ward of Kingston, the prize-winning play of the Elaine Carrington Playhouse, "The Balzaac Murders," will initiate the series of scheduled productions throughout the year.

Old-Time Music, Dancing, Marks 'Folk Festival'

The tenth annual Catskill jam session of old-time fiddlers, jig dancers and ballad singers was held last week-end at the American Legion Hall at Chichester, when Camp Woodland presented the Folk Festival of the Catskills.

Old-timers came with their fiddles, accordions and guitars from the sparsely settled headwaters of the Delaware, where New York city is rushing work on its new reservoirs, from the long-settled Holland Dutch communities of the Hudson Valley, from every part of the hundred square miles of Catskill country, where the music of the pioneers still lingers.

In the main they came from regions comparatively remote from the main currents of modern life. Many performers were old men and women who remember the rafting days, the days when neighbors celebrated the laying of a new barn floor with a rousing square dance.

Cyrus Rogers, spry old dancer of jigs, was a bark peeler in his day for tanneries that have long been abandoned. Dick Edwards, singer of "Come-all-ye" songs, still plies the ancient craft of bowl and scoop making, learned from his Holland Dutch forebears who continued the making of wooden shoes in the wilderness.

The songs sung at the Festival respresented a cross section of the folk music that still rings out when country people get together at parties and dances. They ran the gamut from very old English ballads, such as "The Dewy-Dewy Dens of Yarrow", to the old-time vaudeville ditty, "My Pearl is a Bowery Girl."

Sponsored by Camp Woodland, an interracial camp, the Festival brought together city and country people in common appreciation and enjoyment of the folk heritage of the pioneers. All the folk artists who performed at the Festival were discovered by campers and counselors on many exploratory auto trips through the mountains. Young boys and girls at the Festival sang songs and dances learned from the old-timers. The Festival brought together people of all races, religions and backgrounds in two evenings of frolic.

As part of the Festival, the Camp Woodland Chorus of more than 100 voices, sang "The Lonesome Train," a cantata based on the folklore of Lincoln's death. A camp dramatic group performed a New York State regional play, and a dance group presented an original dance based on the life of Sojourner Truth, an Abolitionist heroine, born a slave in Hurley.

Webster Company Presents 'Saint Joan', Rich Pageant With Superb Acting, Staging

The greatest play by the man regarded by many as the greatest contemporary playwright was produced last night at the Woodstock Playhouse when Margaret Webster directed her gifted company in the beautiful "Saint Joan" of George Bernard Shaw.

The production, with its magnificent costumes and pageantry, its top-flight acting and the rich and powerful Shavian prose, would have been a treat viewed in any theatre under any auspices. As a one-week stand in a rushed and hectic summer season, in a country town, it is well nigh a miracle.

If only for "Saint Joan," Miss Webster will have more than fulfilled her promise of bringing the best theatre in careful production to Woodstock, and will have earned the lasting appreciation and gratitude of her privileged audiences.

"In spite of the usual Shaw mischief and iconoclasm," says Miss Webster in a director's note concerning the play, "something—perhaps St. Joan herself—swept Mr. Shaw into an impassioned avowal of faith—faith in the 'wisdom and freedom of the individual soul,' faith in 'the private man and his God.'"

Fire and Compassion

Shaw's Joan, played with fire and compassion by Louise Horton, is an inspired and determined lass, "in love with religion and in love with war. "She is the first French patriot in the modern sense, she uses and is used by the prominent men of her time, and she is regarded by them with considerably more exasperation than awe.

In this delightfully amusing (and moving) epilogue, as her former colleagues and enemies pay liturgical tribute to her as a saint, they also blanch and squirm when she suggests that she might perform a miracle and resurrect herself.

"You would be burned again," says the Dauphin, and so she would, says Shaw. The earth is not ready to accept its saints.

It took Shaw to pay tribute to the legend of Domremy and to recreate the maid of Orleans, with her womanly fear of pain and her ardent belief in her "voices," her terrified recantation in the face of the stake and the inquisition, and her final sublimely human reaffirmation of her faith—not only in her voices but more especially and overwhelmingly in the liberty of the human spirit faced with oppressive human institutions.

The acting, the direction, and the staging of "Saint Joan" show true theatrical devotion.

An interesting footnote which may be added here is that the present interpretation of "Saint Joan" stems from Shaw himself. One of Margaret Webster's earliest jobs in the theatre was as understudy to Sybil Thorndike in the original London "Saint Joan."

Shaw Unseen Director

"I was privileged to see Shaw conduct rehearsals," explains Miss Webster,"—and himself impersonate Joan with unequalled vigor and fire."

High tribute must be paid to the members of the Webster company who performed their taxing roles in the lengthy play as though it had been in rehearsal and in performance for months.

The prize role of the foolish and weak Dauphin was played to perfection by Frederic Warriner. Kendall Clark was fine as Dunois, the commander of the French armies, a civilized soldier who, despite the rivalry Joan represents, is her only supporter in the councils of the mighty. Yet even he refuses to risk his soldiers' lives in an attempt to save her from the stake.

Frederick Rolf plays two roles marvelously well, that of the fop, "Bluebeard," and of the merciful (according to his lights) and righteous Inquisitor.

Master of Suavity

David Lewis, one of the company's most useful and talented actors, master of the difficult art of suavity, plays the Earl of Warwick, who—if Joan is the first French patriot—may be dubbed the first "modern" English imperialist. Through him and his passionately English cleric, played by Dion Allen (and very well played, may I add) Shaw permits himself a series of devastating comments regarding the English character.

Others in the notable cast who contribute worthily are George Roy Hill as the squire of Vaucouleurs, the first to be exasperated and intrigued by the maid of Orleans, Larry Gates as the ponderous Archbishop of Rheims, and later as the shade of the roistering English soldier who gave Joan a cross as she was burning, Preston Hanson as a captain, and later as a monk, and John Straub as an austere and fanatic Bishop of Beauvais.

Miss Horton as Joan provides a memorable performance, as soon as one accustoms oneself to the difficulty she appears to have with voice projection. Once the ear is attuned to her voice, the true virtuosity of her acting can be appreciated.

Climax of Season

This is the final production of the summer by the Webster company itself (although two more plays are yet to be presented at the Playhouse), and it provides a magnificent climax and conclusion to a season which was vastly superior to the usual "summer stock," however ably presented.

Although Miss Webster yielded to the pressure of demands for "summer frivolity" in one of her presentations, the general quality of the season has been exceptional, the actors extraordinarily good, and the audiences enthusiastic.

Thanks to her, thousands of lucky theatre-goers have seen fine theatre in their own back yard,—which should surely be the goal of theatrical endeavor.—J.M.

New York Cubans Meet Twi League All Stars Saturday at Stadium

Negro National League '9' Has Crack Lineup

Have Sold Five Men To Major League Clubs

Carrying on the fine tradition that has made them famous for more than 30 years, the New York Cubans of the Negro National League will present another all-star aggregation when they meet the City League All Stars Saturday, Aug. 26, at municipal stadium.

(The announcement that the City League All Stars would meet the Cubans was made yesterday by Addison Jones, president of Colonial City Baseball, Inc.).

Rich in baseball tradition, the colorful Cuban Stars have made several appearances in Kingston over the years, the most recent being a 9-0 shellacking of the 1948 Kingston Recreations.

Major league talent scouts began to watch the Cubans in 1947 when they won the pennant and Negro world's championship and went on to sweep exhibition honors on post-season barnstorming tours in Puerto Rico.

Sold to Majors

The first players the Cubans sold to a major league were Orestes Minoso and Jose Santiago, who were purchased by the Cleveland Indians of the American League in 1948.

The New York Giants in 1949 purchased three players for their farms, Ray Dandridge, David "Impo" Barnhill and Rafael Noble, to run their total to five.

This season another player, Raul Lopez, has been purchased by the New York Giants. Of course, the Cubans have a working agreement with them, and play all their home games in New York at the Polo Grounds, in the heart of Harlem.

If their holdout, Lorenzo Cabrera, hard-hitting first sacker had reported this year instead of going to Venezuela, the Cubans would have sold him to the Chicago Cubs.

Pompez Heads Club

As in the past, Alex Pompez, who has been operating the Cubans for more than 30-odd years has come up with several new stars from Cuba and Puerto Rico. He scouts the players in the Cuban winter leagues and all outstanding talent is invited to spend the summer in the United States.

For years this has been his policy and is the reason the Cubans have such good ball clubs year after year and are able to send more colored stars to the big leagues than any other club in Negro baseball.

The players from the island are Edmundo Amoro, right field; Luis Caballero, third base; Fernando Diaz, outfield; Rene Gonzalez, first base. He is touted to be another Martin Dihigo. He is big and strong and clouts the ball for fabulous distance. The new pitchers are Raomundo Navarreto and Martinano Arguelles.

The American element is still retained in Louis Louden, catcher; Walter Hardy, second sacker, Pee-wee Jenkins and Riley Stewart. Old reliable Pat Scantlebury from the Canal Zone is the mainstay of the mound corps

Manager Joe Hoffman of the Twi All Stars is expected to announce his pitching selection tomorrow

Junior Stars Threaten Vets In U. S. Amateur

Minneapolis, Aug. 23 (AP) — A crop of youngsters, products of the country's widespread junior golf program, is moving in for a kill at the national amateur.

Seldom in the 50-year-history of the sedate tournament has so much young blood flowed past the hazardous first two days of play and into the third and fourth rounds.

Two 18-hole trips today reduced the field, originally 210, to 16 hardy survivors. Whether many of the "rookies" will be around by nightfall is conjectural —but undoubtedly some of them will.

Still in the race for amateur golf's greatest honor are such old hands as Toledo's Frank Stranahan, determined to add a little slam after winning the British Amateur this season, defending champion Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City; former winners Ted Bishop of Weston, Mass., Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, N. C., and Willie Turnesa of White Plains, N. Y.

Warhooping after such seasoned swingers as these come the kids, led by 15-year-old Don Dispinghoff of Orlando, Fla., high school.

The square-shouldered blond went to the semi-finals of the U.S.G.A. junior meet at Denver recently. Other ages reach into the early 20's and represent youths who found their tournament legs in such meets as the U.S.G.A.-Junior, the National Junior Chamber of Commerce meet, the National Caddy Tourney, the Western Golf Association Junior Open, and the Hearst National.

Foremost among the newcomers are husky Gene Littler, the juvee 1948 champion from Seattle, Wash., and 21-year-old Gerald Kesselring of Kitchener, Ont., Canada.

Kesselring, fresh from taking the Canadian junior crown, scored the most lopsided triumph of the entire meet yesterday with a 9 and 8 second round decision over Russ Brothers of Nashville, Tenn.

Littler, a 20-year-old clothing merchandiser whose most recent victory was in the Tucson Invitational, has had to play only 26 holes in trouncing two opponents with his well-groomed swing.

Major League Roundup

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Today could be described as D-Day in the life and times of the turbulent Detroit Tigers.

Another loss on top of yesterday's 13-5 beating by the New York Yankees might mark the beginning of the end of Detroit's pennant dream. Also the outlook for the third and last of the three-game set at Yankee Stadium Thursday is far from bright. Then comes Boston.

Red Rolfe is banking on his ace, Art Houtteman today. The young right-hander and veteran Dizzy Trout are all that's left of the once-mighty Tiger pitching crew. Hal Newhouser and Fred Hutchinson have been in and out all year. Virgil Trucks and Ted Gray are laid up with sore arms. Hal White was pounded black and blue yesterday and Trout worked the day before. So everything is up to Houtteman.

Houtteman (16-9) has beaten the Yanks four times in six outings. Veteran Vic Raschi (15-8), his opponent, owns a 1-2 season record against the Tigers.

Calls Yankees the Team

Rolfe, recognizes that the flag can be won or lost at the Stadium.

"I'm not trying to belittle the chances of the Indians or Red Sox," Red said before yesterday's game, "but the Yankees are the team to beat for the flag. I think it will be between us and New York. They've got the best pitching in the league. And (Casey) Stengel has been lucky enough to have his big four escape injury.

"The way I see it, we must take at least one here and two out of three in Boston. I'll settle for that right now."

The Yankees were simply merciless on three Tiger pitchers yesterday. Led by catcher Yogi Berra, they clubbed out 14 hits, including two doubles, a triple and three home runs. Berra batted in six runs with his homer, triple and two singles.

Allie Reynolds' pitching was only fair. He gave up 11 hits and five walks.

It was a disastrous day all around for the Tigers as the Indians and Red Sox also won. The Tribe whipped Washington, 5-1, to cut Detroit's margin to three and a half. The Red Sox walloped St. Louis's Browns, 9-5, to climb to within five and a half games of the top.

Phillies Retain Lead

Philadelphia's furious Phillies retained their five and a half game margin in the National League, edging the Reds in Cincinnati, 4-3. Brooklyn's Dodgers outslugged the Pirates in Pittsburgh, 10-8, and Boston's Braves took third place from the Cardinals with a 5-1 triumph in St. Louis.

The New York Giants made it 16 wins in 19 games with the Cubs, winning in Chicago, 6-5, in the National's only afternoon contest. Philadelphia and Chicago in the American League were idled by rain.

Bob Feller pitched six-hit ball to record his 12th win for the Indians. The Red Sox poured over eight runs in the sixth inning to overcome a 4-1 deficit and went on to gain their eighth straight triumph.

Del Ennis' ninth-inning single drove in Richie Ashburn with the run that gave the Phillies' Robin Roberts the edge in the pitching duel with Cincinnati's veteran Ken Raffensberger. It was Roberts' 17th victory, tops in the National League.

Arlington H.S. Stars Invited to KAA Game

Fritz Jordan To Send Six Players to Classic

Six standout players on the crack 1950 Arlington High School baseball varsity have accepted invitations to play with the Kingston Athletic Association's Junior All Stars against the Brooklyn-Against-The-World juniors on Thursday, Aug. 31, at municipal stadium.

Fritz Jordan, Arlington's well known athletic coach, also accepted a bid to assist Bud Cullotton in drilling and handling the team for the annual schoolboy classic.

Heading the list is Lefty Chester Vincent, one of the best scholastic twirlers in the Hudson valley and another flinger, Van Bedolette

The other players are Fred Schmalberger, catcher, Homer Rikert, first base, Bob Martin, shortstop and Reg Beesmer, outfielder.

Fix of the six, excluding Beesmer, were given tryouts by the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Jordan Enthusiastic

Jordan, the popular coach who also served as coach for the Poughkeepsie Chiefs in the Colonial Baseball League, was enthusiastic about the invitation.

"We're very happy to take part in this game," he said yesterday. "We know you people are doing a grand job up there in the promotion of junior baseball. We think our kids will help you against the Brooklyn team."

The addition of the Arlington players brings the K.A.A. Junior squad almost to full strength for the annual "dream game" on August 31.

An invitation has been extended to Johnny Bowman, N.F.A. ace and a youngster by the name of Steever, who has reeled off 21 consecutive victories in Columbia and Greene county competition to date.

Tickets are now on sale for the big game and merchants are being asked to underwrite about 2,000 tickets, at reduced rates, for children of the city.

Twaalfskill's 'Big Four' Advances To Semi-Finals in Championships

Boice, Van Gonsic, Remmert, Hughes In

Twaalfskill Golf Club's "Big Four" have advanced to the semi-finals of the 1950 club championships, with a battle royal in prospect before the new champion, if there is to be one, is crowned.

The "Big Four" being defending champion Alvie Boice, George Hughes, Ed Remmert and John Van Gonsic.

The semi-final round will feature three former and present champions in Boice, Van Gonsic and Remmert. Hughes, elevated to full membership this year, is favored by many to advance to the finals, although John Van Gonsic will have something to say about that.

The "Big Four" breezed through first round matches in impressive style. Boice, defending club and city champion, whapped George Schneider, 5 and 4. Remmert knocked off Dr. Robert McCaig, 4 and 3; Van Gonsic won from Dr. Rodney Ball, 4 and 3; while young Hughes defeated John Matthews, 6 and 5.

A Close Match

Van Gonsic met the stiffest opposition in the second round where veteran Lou Smith bowed out 2 and 1. Boice trounced Burt Haver, 5 and 4; Remmert took an early lead to overcome Clary Buddenhagen, while Hughes defeated Van Haver, 8 and 7.

Boice and Remmert are paired in the upper bracket of the semi-finals, while Van Gonsic and Hughes square off in the lower half.

The Twaalfskill finalist will meet the Wiltwyck champion in a 36-hole playoff for the city championship on Sunday, Sept. 3.

Grillmen Have 4-1 Edge In Post-Season Play

Tom Spada's slick pitching and robust hitting carried Subway Grill to the Shaughnessy title in the City Softball League yesterday, via a 4 to 3 decision over Bence's Tavern.

The Subways won the post-season series, four games to one.

Spada scattered seven his effectively, choking off a seventh inning threat by Bences, and furnished a double and homer to Subways' nine-hit assault on Ed Dasher.

The Tavern tossers went down fighting, scoring twice in the seventh and having the tying run cut down at second base when Bosco Tomaseskie tried to stretch a single into a double.

To Play Ellenville

Andy Murphy III today announced plans for a series between Subway Grill and the champions of the Ellenville Village League.

Subways scored single tallies in four of the first six frames and held a 4-1 lead when Bence's Tavern came to bat in the seventh

Two players on each side connected for a couple of safeties. Sonny Woods clouted two singles and Frank Sass had a double and single for the losers. Eddie Ashdown and Tom Spada connected twice for Subways.

Jones Dairy-Chez Emile Playoff Set; Boulevards Take 4th Place

Fisher, Swarthout Probable Pitchers

Jones Dairy and Chez Emile clash in a single game playoff today to determine first place in the regular standings of the 1950 City Baseball League race.

The clubs are tied with 11 wins and 3 losses in the regular schedule.

Boulevard Gulf nailed down third place yesterday by downing Morgan's Rest, 4 to 1, behind the effective pitching of Tortorella and Link Crosby.

The Gulfmen finished with 10 wins and 4 defeats. Old Capitals captured the fourth spot in the Shaughnessy playoffs with a 9 and 5 record.

Timely hitting against Jerry Bechtold enabled the Boulevards to convert six hits into four runs. Meanwhile, Tortorella pitched five scoreless innings for the winners before yielding to Crosby, who fanned the side in the sixth, and then yielded the lone Morgan tally in the seventh

Lose 13 Games

Morgan's Rest concluded its disastrous campaign with one victory in 14 games.

A two-out error on Vogt followed by singles by Schoonmaker and Thomas sent Boulevards ahead 1-0 in the first. The second tally was the result of Scheffel's single, Hinkley's sacrifice and a one timer by Alvan Vogt.

Boulevards closed out their scoring with a pair in the fifth. Tortorella walked, stole second and rode home on Scheffel's double. Stoll threw into centerfield trying to pick Scheffel off second, Ronnie moving to third on the error and scoring on Vogt's fly to right.

Bob Slover collected three singles for the losers, while Ronnie Scheffel and Schoonmaker rapped a double and single apiece for Boulevard Gulf.

'Fantastic' Weapons

Johnstown, Pa., Aug. 23 (AP)—The U. S. is building "fantastic" new war weapons, says aircraft manufacturer Glenn L. Martin. Speaking last night at a Kiwanis dinner marking the start of the All American Amateur Baseball Tournament, Martin said his Baltimore firm is building four types of homing device missiles, each of which can "track its game better than an animal." Martin said his company will be on a full wartime basis by November.

Two Plates in 1951

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 23 (AP)—New York state license plates will sport the same black and yellow next year, but the colors will be reversed and each motor vehicle will have two plates. This year's single markers have yellow figures on a black background. In 1951, the figures will be black and the background yellow. The State Motor Vehicle Bureau said today that the 1951 plates would go on sale late in December, but that they could not be used until January 1.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY THE BEST!

GOODYEAR TIRES are the best!

In times like these, far-sighted people naturally buy the best. And when it comes to tires, they buy the BEST tires. That's why more car owners today are turning to Goodyear tires. And that's why we are having a hard time keeping Goodyear tires in stock — despite the fact that Goodyear makes more tires than any other manufacturer in the world. So, even if we should be temporarily out of your particular size, it will pay you to place your order now for earliest possible delivery.

Remember, if we don't have your tire size today, it will pay you to wait for new Goodyears — the best!

It's Value that counts
The final answer to tire value is how many trouble-free miles a tire delivers compared to its cost. Get Goodyear quality and find out for yourself why Goodyears are best.

Terms to suit you . .
You can still get longer-wearing Goodyear tires at prices you like to pay, on terms that suit you. We'll give you a generous allowance for your old tires plus easy terms, too.

Trade new miles for old
90% of all tire trouble occurs in the last 10% of tire life. Why take chances with worn, smooth tires? We'll trade you new Goodyear miles for the remaining unsafe mileage in your present tires. Get out of the "danger zone" — Go Goodyear.
And for safer driving, get LifeGuard Safety Tubes.

Come in . . . let's talk tires, tubes, terms

Shokan, Aug. 23 — Eugene Isaaksen returned to Brooklyn Sunday following a week's vacation at the A. Olson camp. Gene as a summer visitor here for several years, "used to be a keen woodchuck stalker but he now gets more satisfaction out of hunting with a camera. The other day he happened close upon a fine buck deer in an old field on the Stanley Matthews place, known in days gone by as the Thankful Elmendorf farm, along the East Butternutkill; "it was a peach of a shot," says Gene, "but doggone it, I didn't have my camera along."

Preaching services were held Sunday in the 93-year old local O. S. Baptist meetinghouse. Out of town Baptists here for the day included Hewitt Osborn, a member of the church board.

Mrs. John Adsit and children, Patricia and John Jr., are spending a week in Long Branch, N. J., Mrs. Adsit's former home town. John, who took his family down by car, formerly was stationed at nearby Fort Monmouth, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. James Carpenter and son, Patrick, of Richmond Hill, L. I., are at their Ridge Road camp for a vacation. "Jim" is a veteran of European service with the 78th Division in the first World War.

John Thayer, local baseball player, and his assistant, Kenneth Glass, are doing a good business with the Thayer wholesale produce truck in the mountain communities.

Town Clerk Della Lewis was numbered among the South Olive residents calling in the hub of the reservoir country Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Avery and two children of Painted Post spent Frank's 25th birthday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Avery, during the week-end. Frank, a veteran of War 2 Pacific service with the First Marine Division, worked on the new state road here two years ago and more recently has been with the Lane Construction company on the Saugerties Thruway project. He is now employed by the Lane Company as an operating engineer on their new job at Corning where they are working on an $8 million contract to relocate the Erie Railroad. The Averys are making their home in a new trailer at Painted Post.

Grange News

State winners in the National Grange Highway Safety Essay Contest have been named for 1950. State Lecturer Florence Pickett announces that 17-year-old Marian Goodwin, of Geneva RD, member of Enterprise Grange No. 597, Ontario county, submitted the winning essay and will receive a cash award of $15. Miss Goodwin's entry will also be judged in the national contest.

Second place in the state goes to Joan Wright, of Ohio, N. Y., member of North Star Grange No. 686, Herkimer county. Third place winner is Ina Mae Frasier, Wellsville RD, of Wellsville Grange No. 1587.

The 1950 Contest is the 22nd held by the Grange and embraces the subject of "Youth's Responsibility in Highway Safety." The impact of the thousands of submitted entries is enormous.

Grange tour in connection with National Grange's 84th Annual Sessions in Minneapolis in November will include, for eastern states members, side trips to such widely scattered points as Washington, D. C. and Toronto, with sightseeing in Chicago en route. The visit to Toronto coincides with the Winter Fair being held at that time, and promises an interesting sideline in connection with the trip.

National Master Albert S. Goss has been appointed to the 12-man Committee on Mobilization and Policy of the National Resources Board, it was announced in Washington this past week. Members were chosen to advise on phases of civilian mobilization and defense from groups representing agriculture, industry, labor and other public interests.

Post Office Payroll Cut Hit 16,000 Workers

Washington, Aug. 23 (AP)—The Post Office Department, attempting to balance its income and outgo, disclosed today it has cut 16,000 persons off the pay roll during the past year.

The major reductions were made in the wake of the mid-April order for far-reaching cutbacks in postal service. These involved such things as shorter post office window hours, less night handling for non-first-class mail and reductions of deliveries in residential areas to one a day.

Postmaster General Donaldson said the service changes were essential to end continuing annual deficits in the postal service. The House last week passed a bill to require the department to put the service back on its former basis.

Should the Senate concur in this action, without an accompanying larger regular appropriation for the department, it is certain that Donaldson will strongly recommend a presidential veto. President Truman has said he does not like the House bill.

The department showed a total pay roll as of June 30, 1950, of 501,679, compared with 517,960 on the same date in 1949. The pay roll cut showed up largely among part-time or substitute workers.

Lots of Cranberries

East Wareham, Mass., Aug. 23 (AP)—There will be plenty of cranberries for Thanksgiving and Christmas this year. That's the word of Chester D. Stevens of the New England Crop Reporting Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. He told the Cape Cod Cranberry Growers Association yesterday that the 1950 crop will be the largest in history. About 600,000 barrels of the total estimated 969,000 American crop will come from Cape Cod.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD B. THIBAUT, JR.

Engagement of Hughes Is Denied By Kenneth Wilson

Woodstock, Aug. 23—A storm of controversy, lashed by false rumors that a well-known leftist was coming to Woodstock (1) to give a concert, or (2) to read his poetry, was calmed today by Town Supervisor Kenneth Wilson who said that the man was not coming to Woodstock, and that his appearance had never been planned in any way.

The controversy was over Langston Hughes, Negro poet, whose opera "The Barrier" written in collaboration with Jan Mayrowitz, was scheduled to have been performed the week of September 5 at the Woodstock Playhouse.

The opera has been cancelled, the Playhouse announced because "an early opening in New York and the scheduled date at the Playhouse would have conflicted." The controversy over Mr. Hughes had nothing whatsoever to do with the cancellation, a spokesman for Margaret Webster declared.

Mr. Wilson said the false rumor of a concert by Mr. Hughes had "gone around town, and there was so much comment that we were afraid of another Peekskill incident." In view of the comment, he said, he went to the Playhouse and learned that an appearance had never been contemplated.

He also firmly spiked another rumor—that the Playhouse had been asked to cancel the opera. "It seems to me like witch-hunting to start tracing down the authors of plays," he said.

Joe Wagner, commander of the Woodstock Post of the American Legion, said his organization had understood that "some big Communist from New York was coming to Woodstock to read some poems."

"We didn't want any disturbance," he said, "and some town officials and the Legion went to the theatre and were told that they wouldn't bring him up. The play itself is okay as far as we know."

Mr. Wagner said the Legion had not asked the cancellation of "The Barrier."

Riding Club Name Group on Abuses

Woodstock, Aug. 23—At the last monthly meeting of the Woodstock Riding Club, Inc., the members present had an interesting discussion regarding trails through this country. The following committee was appointed to draw up rules regarding the privileges accorded riders by certain property owners: George Hard, Griffin Herrick and Virgil Van Wagonen.

Abuse of privileges has been reported to the club and the committee will prepare a set of rules and regulations governing all riding by club members through private property. The club regrets that some reports have been received that are not too favorable, and it is therefore going to try to remedy all wrong doings in the future. The committee will give a report at the next meeting.

It was announced that plans for the horsemanship field day being sponsored by the Woodstock Riding Club at its ring, are in full swing. Although the date is not until Sunday, Sept. 10, many entries for different events have already been received. The officials for this good-time day include the following riding devotees: Virgil Van Wagonen, chairman; Louise Van Wagonen, secretary; Sam J. Adams, treasurer; Dot Adams, entry clerk; Clara Smith, ring clerk; Griffin Herrick, numbers; Charles Ashley and Artist Ned Chase, ring stewards. The public address system will be handled by Jack Ahearn, famous dude rancher. The day promises to be a gala event for young and old.

Another event also in the making is a baseball game on horseback between the Woodstock Riding Club and a number of town officials. The game is being sponsored by the Riding Club for the benefit of the Woodstock recreational program. The exact date has not been designated but will be announced later.

Two Plays Slated For Maverick

Woodstock, Aug. 23—Instead of the usual Thursday night opening, the Loft Players will present two plays at the Maverick Theatre Saturday, August 26.

Christopher Fry, England's newest and most outstanding figure in the literary world of poetic drama, is the author of one of the plays, "A Phoenix Too Frequent." It will be the first summer stock presentation of the brilliant comedy which took England by storm and is considered one of the young playwright's best works. The play, which spins a tale of ancient Greece, was presented on Broadway last season. Fry's newest play, "Ladies Not For Burning" is scheduled for a New York run this coming season.

Jose Quintero, who has directed many of the plays given by the Loft Players this season, is the author of a new play, "Ribbon of Smoke," which will have its first performance at the Maverick Saturday. Quintero, a native Panamanian, is thoroughly familiar with the locale, a primitive Indian village in Central America. In the production the author will play himself.

The plays will be given Saturday, Sunday and Monday, Aug. 26, 27 and 28, with no performances Tuesday and Wednesday. They will reopen again Thursday, Aug. 31, to run through Labor Day, Mon., Sept. 4. This will conclude the season for the Loft Players at the Maverick Theatre.

Blind Sale Friday

Woodstock, Aug. 23—Residents of Woodstock and vicinity are requested to visit the Woodstock sale for the blind, which will be held Friday, August 25, on the Lutheran Church grounds, rain or shine. Homemakers will find many practical and economical household articles on display at this sale. Each purchase directly benefits the blind, as the cost of all products is determined by the price of the materials and the wages paid to the blind workers.

To Resume Meetings

Woodstock, Aug. 23—The Home Bureau will resume its activities with the annual rally Wednesday, September 6, at 11 a. m. at the home of Mrs. Morris Klein on the Saugerties road. Members have been asked to bring a covered dish and table service.

Voting Is Light

Woodstock, Aug. 23—Extremely light voting was reported in Woodstock Tuesday at the fall primaries. A total of 25 votes were cast at the Woodstock Town Hall.

Village Notes

Woodstock, Aug. 23—Mr. and Mrs. George Berk returned Monday night from Boston. They brought with them their niece and nephew, Florence and Eddie Zall who will remain here over Labor Day.

Miss Alice Coulter will arrive Thursday from Long Island to be the guest of Mrs. Arthur F. Wyman.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Garnett of Bearsville, are the parents of a son born early Tuesday morning at the Kingston Hospital. Mr. Garnett is the proprietor of the Bearsville Cleaners.

Hanley Keeps Speaking Despite Move for Dewey

(By The Associated Press)

Lt. Gov. Joe R. Hanley swung through friendly upstate areas today on his campaign for the Republican gubernatorial nomination while a G.O.P. group in New York city tried to keep a "draft Dewey" alive.

Hanley's schedule included a luncheon conference with party leaders at Auburn and a speech tonight at the Wayne County Fair, Palmyra. His tour will end Saturday at Perry.

Meanwhile, Governor Dewey flew to Ottawa for a major speech on international relations at the Central Canadian Exposition.

The governor still had made no comment on the split between the New York city group urging him to change his mind about retiring and the upstate supporters of Hanley. Dewey said June 17 he would not seek a third term, and he pledged support to Hanley.

Informed sources expect Dewey to kill off the draft talk, directly or indirectly, before the G.O.P. State Convention September 6-7 at Saratoga Springs.

Schoharie represents 500 upstate New York dairy farmers who market their milk in New Jersey, New York, and Pennsylvania.

Leftovers can be made into a salad, or into a variety of sandwich fillings. French-toasted sandwiches are tops if you want an appetizing hot dish. Just dip the sandwiches into an egg and milk mixture and fry golden brown on both sides.

Unhappy Red

A wounded North Korean soldier, captured during U. S. Marines' drive in Naktong river area, uses a tree limb to support himself as he heads toward rear under escort of Pvt. Martin A. Penny (left) of Houston, Texas, and Pfc. Donald E. West, of Pond Creek, Okla.

North Koreans

when the Doughboys jumped off against them.

Lt. Anthony Pecoraro of South Windham, Maine, his voice trembling with rage, told Correspondent Lambert of one incident of the battle:

"I got word one of my machine-gunners had been killed. A medic and two infantrymen had gone out to the machinegunner.

"They were bending over the gunner when 12 of those Red bastards came up. The medic grabbed the bar (Browning automatic rifle) and turned it on them but it jammed. The Reds shot him in the stomach and bayonetted the two soldiers. Then they shot the medic in the back."

Man-to-Man Battle

It was man-to-man fighting at some stages of the allied attack.

But late Wednesday the U. S.-South Korean power told on the Reds who pulled back toward their main line, the full 12 miles north of Taegu. At sunset the forward area was quiet, Correspondent Lambert reported.

After dark Doughboys as far as five miles behind the front line were still fighting Reds who tried to dynamite the supply road in one sector. In another the Reds were caught trying to lay a mine field.

The Americans broke up both attempts with mortar and artillery shelling.

Allied planes swarmed over the battlefront all day and into the night.

The day's fighting brought out two of the seldom-seen Russian-made Yak fighter planes for North Korean attacks on South Korean naval units in the Yellow Sea. Nothing was said about damage.

Two other Yaks—possibly the same pair — had bombed and strafed the British destroyer Comus Tuesday without causing any damage.

General MacArthur said enemy attacks on the vital southern front before the main harbor of Pusan had diminished.

The line west of Taegu was reported quiet with the Reds shoving 6,000 men across the Naktong river at Hyonpung, 14 miles southwest of the fortress city.

The U. S. 24th Infantry Division was guarding this sector along the Naktong.

Farther north near Waegwan, the U. S. First Cavalry Division constantly raked the Reds West bank of the river with artillery fire aimed to break up troop concentrations.

On the east coast above Pohang port stiffening Red resistance forced the South Korean capitol division to take defensive positions.

The South Korean Third Division still inched forward cautiously in that area. It was between six and nine miles north of Pohang.

Cancels Activities

It was announced today that the Mother's Club of the Creek Locks School has decided to cancel all activities temporarily.

Congressmen Win

ber of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Anfuso, who came to the United States from Sicily as a child, accused Fair Dealer Pfeifer of congressional absenteeism. Pfeifer had Democratic organization endorsement. Anfuso is a lawyer.

Two former Republican congressmen, defeated in 1948, tried primary comebacks without organization support in western New York's 43rd and 44th Districts.

Ex-Rep. John C. Butler won renomination over State Assemblyman John R. Pillion, the G.O.P. organization choice, in the 44th.

In the 43rd, however, State Senator Edmund P. Radwan defeated former Rep. Edward J. Elsaesser. Radwan had organization endorsement.

Takes Pfeiffer's Place

District Attorney William E. Miller of Niagara county won a three-way fight for the G.O.P. congressional nomination relinquished by Pfeiffer in the 42nd.

Besides Mahoney, four Republicans and one Democratic state senator triumphed in primary tests.

They were:

Republicans Thomas F. Campbell, Schenectady; Floyd E. Anderson, Binghamton; Fred S. Hollowell, Penn Yan; Earl E. Brydges, Niagara Falls, and Democrat Mario M. De Optatis of Brooklyn.

Eight Republican assemblymen turned back primary challengers.

They were:

Victories were registered by all eight Democratic assemblymen opposed for renomination.

They were:

Philip V. Baczkowski, Erie; Elijah Crump, Manhattan; John L. Ryan, Louis Kalish, John Smolenski, Philip J. Schupler, Joseph R. Coros and Ben Werbel, all of Brooklyn.

Farmers Divided

general secretary of the federation's New York state branch, also favored regulation.

"If you regulate the use of the radio air waves and the aviation pathways, it seems logical that tampering with the clouds should be controlled," he said.

"Properly regulated, rainmaking would be a big help to farmers."

But they still want to make hay while the sun shines.

Dr. Weber Named To Paris Embassy As TB Consultant

Dr. George W. Weber, who recently submitted his resignation as medical director of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital, has received an appointment to the United States Public Health Service and has been assigned to the American Embassy in Paris. Dr. Weber will become tuberculosis consultant for the American Consular posts in Europe.

Although his headquarters will be in Paris, his duties will take him to the various consulate posts throughout Europe as tuberculosis consultant for the U. S. quarantine office.

The position is a newly created one and his duties will be that of organizing the service which will screen applications of all emigrants who seek to immigrate to the United States. His first duties in Europe will be to organize the department and set up the program. This will require his traveling throughout Europe to visit the various United States consulate posts.

Dr. Weber's resignation as medical director of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital will become effective on September 18 and he and Mrs. Weber will leave shortly thereafter for Paris.

No successor has been named as yet at the Tuberculosis Hospital.

Owl Called Stupid

Chicago (AP)—The owl isn't so smart. Austin L. Rand, curator of birds at the Chicago Natural History Museum grants that they make quite an impressive appearance. "But owls don't seem to have much behind the front they put up," he says. "People who have studied them find that the young are very slow to learn to feed themselves. One saw-whet owl that was kept captive refused to eat liver put into its cage, apparently not recognizing the meat as food. But when the liver was crammed into an empty mouse skin the owl ate it at once. "The crows and their relatives, the jays, are the birds that are really intelligent."

Hooker Street Man Held as Drunk Driver

John Lindhurst, 71, of 116 Hooker street, was arrested yesterday afternoon on charges of leaving the scene of an accident and driving while intoxicated after a car had been struck near 186 Foxhall avenue.

The case was put over to Aug. 30 when he appeared today before Special City Judge Harry Gold and bail of $500 was continued.

The police report at 4:40 p. m., said a car had been struck on Foxhall avenue and the driver of the offending vehicle continued without stopping.

Officers James Burns and Walter Fitzgerald were dispatched to the area and Lindhurst was arrested on Foxhall avenue near Stephan street.

The damaged car, owned by the Dobler Brewing Co., of Albany, was operated by Daniel J. Cronan of Mt. Tremper who had stopped at the Boice store, the report said.

Car Recovered

Local police were notified yesterday afternoon that the car of Fred Stroms, 57 Stephan street, which was reported stolen Sunday morning from his driveway, was recovered by police at Torrington, Conn.

The answers to everyday insurance problems
By HERMAN J. EATON

QUESTION: My hobby is photography and during the past several years I've accumulated equipment worth quite a respectable sum of money. I've always listed the equipment in my regular Residence Theft insurance but when I recently purchased a rather expensive camera, I was told it would be a good idea to take out a special camera insurance policy. Can you tell me how to go about it?
ANSWER: So long as your photography is of the amateur variety, it would be better to continue insuring your equipment under your Residence Theft policy. If you will make sure that the "theft away from premises" clause is included and that your particularly valuable pieces of equipment are individually insured for their full value in the policy, you'll have pretty complete protection.
* If you'll address your own insurance questions to this office we'll try to give you the correct answers and there will be NO CHARGE OR OBLIGATION OF ANY KIND.
